FURY OF A DEMON.

A Roaring Conflagration in Halifax.

Whole Blocks of Buildings Swept Away.

Ten Thousand People Watch the Flames

As They Leap From Building to Building.

Royal Engineers Blowing Up Buildings to Check the Spread—Over a Million Dollars Damage Caused.

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 2.—The most disastrous fire that has visited Halifax for years is now ranging. It broke out before 1 o'clock a. m. in the Merlin planing mill on Taylor's wharf, near the Cunard wharves.

In a few minutes the place was all ablaze and the fire spread rapidly. A gentle breeze from the north carried showers of live sparks to the buildings, vessels and wharves south of the fire.

The whole department was called out and engines from Dartmouth came over to render assistance.

Within an hour Merlin's mill, Wilson's blacksmith shop, John Taylor & Co.'s big fish warehouse filled with pickled fish, Brookfield Brothers' lumber warehouse and yards, all on the Taylor and Brookfield wharves were destroyed.

By this time the fire had spread to Liverpool wharf on the north and burned out Butler's spar yard. B. Emmerton, millers' agent, the Halifax broom factory, J. B. Neilly & Co., commission merchants, and Shatford Brothers, oil dealers.

Large quantities of petroleum were stored on this wharf and there were great fears of an explosion. This was prevented by rolling the oil into the dock.

The fire also spread simultaneously to the south wharf and soon the immense fish warehouses of John Taylor & Co. were a prey to the flames.

The firemen are now directing their efforts to prevent the spread of the flames to the big fish warehouse of Daniel Cronin, on the south, and T. A. S. DeWolf & Sons, agents of the Anchor line, on the north.

The loss will be heavy. A score of schooners at the burning wharves were quickly moved out into the harbor.

By 2 o'clock this morning the whole block from John Cronin's on the south, to the north side of Hamilton's wharf on the north, almost adjoining the Cunard wharves, had been destroyed.

The city is crowded with visitors attending the exhibition, and 10,000 spectators line the wharves in the vicinity of the conflagration.

The oil is mostly importations of the Standard Oil company and the Eastern Oil company. The military have been called out and the admiral has ordered out all the men-of-war sailors, with their hand engines and reels. The royal engineers are blowing up buildings to prevent the spread of the fire. So far no loss of life is reported.

GORED TO DEATH.

Tiffin, O., Oct. 2.—Yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock, while Diemer Brothers were driving a bull down Market street to their slaughter house, the animal became infuriated and dashed into a street car horse, goring the animal so badly that it cannot recover.

It then ran down the street a short distance and rushed for Frank Ries, who was crossing the street at this point, and ran its horns into his bowels, goring him to death.

Mr. Ries was 45 years old, and has followed the barber trade in this city for the past 40 years. He was a soldier in the German army, and fought in the war of the rebellion.

INJURED BY A FALL.

Wauseon, Oct. 2.—(Special)—While passing through this place yesterday to the fair, Mrs. M. D. Viers, of Pettisville, a lady upwards of 50, met with a very painful accident.

The jolting of the wagon broke the bolt securing the back seat and the lady and her sister were thrown out. Mrs. Viers striking on her shoulders and back on a crossing and was probably internally injured.

STABBED TO DEATH.

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 2.—At Huntsville, Ala., this morning, Prof. Renfro, a white teacher in a colored normal school, attempted to chastise Ebenezer Kahn, a colored pupil. Kahn seized a three inch steel chisel and imbedded it in Renfro's brain, killing him. Kahn is under arrest.

BURGLARS AT CUSTAR.

Custar, O., Oct. 2.—(Special)—The store of O. H. Jones was burglarized Wednesday evening. Clothing, shoes, hats, shirts, silk handkerchiefs, jewelry, hosiery and notions, to the amount of $100, was taken.

WAUSEON DEMOCRATS.

Wauseon, Oct. 2.—The democracy of Wauseon is not behind the times. It has rented a room, furnished it, and will keep current literature in stock.

This reading room will be free to all, and will doubtless do abundance of good for Campbell.

W. R. C. COTTAGE.

Geneva, O., Oct. 2.—The ceremonies of laying the corner stone of the Ohio Cottage on the grounds of the National W. R. C. home at Madison took place yesterday, according to the program printed in these columns last week.

DENVER BUILDING.

Washington, Oct. 2.—The contract for the woodwork on the public building in Denver, Col., was to-day awarded to John Moore & Co., of Syracuse, N. Y., for $44,450.

BIG GUNS IN LINE.

Cleveland, Carlisle, Hill and Gorman.

Monster Democratic Mass Meeting to be Held in Madison Square October 27.

New York, Oct. 2.—The special committee of the Business Men's Democratic association appointed to arrange for a grand business men's mass meeting met last night and fixed upon October 27 as the date of meeting, and Madison Square as the place.

Ex-President Cleveland and Gov. Hill will both be present and address the meeting, and John G. Carlisle and Senator Gorman will also be among the speakers.

MISTRUSTED EGAN.

His past Record Gave the Junta Good Cause for Alarm.

New York, Oct. 2.—The Herald's Valparaiso dispatch this morning says the probable cause of the trouble between the Santiago officials and Minister Egan was the belief of the former that refugees in the American legation were hatching a conspiracy against the junta. There was not the least foundation for this conviction. Commodore Schley returned from Santiago yesterday and reports that everything is quiet.

SEPTEMBER COINAGE.

Washington, Oct. 2.—During the month of September coinage at United States mints was executed as follows: Gold pieces to the number of 124,046 and of the value of $2,200,362.50; silver pieces to the number of 6,150,140 and of the value of $1,380,185; and 5,162,800 minor coins of the value of $122,124, making the total coinage of 11,437,246 pieces of the value of $3,702,671.

SOLD FOR A MILLION.

Denver, Col., Oct. 2.—The Grand Central mine at Kingston, N. M., was sold here last night by Thomas O'Neil, its owner, to an English syndicate for $1,000,000 cash. It is a low grade property running 15 to 20 ounces of silver per ton and 10 per cent. lead. It is impossible to give clear titles to property in that locality, so a 99 year lease was given, which i spractically a sale.

TYPHOID FEVER IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—Typhoid fever has been more or less prevalent in some sections of the city for many months, in fact it is never wholly absent. Recently it has assumed an epidemic form, and is so prevalent that physicians and nurses have no time to be interviewed, and cases are crowding into hospitals in large numbers.

ON THE RETIRED LIST.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Capt. George H. Perkins, U. S. navy, at his own request was to-day placed on the retired list, after 40 years service. Capt. Perkins distinguished himself during the late war as commander of the United States Steamer Chickasaw at Mobile Bay, Ala.

IRISH NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Small Attendance at the Chicago Meeting.

Preliminary Work of the Convention Completed.

Irishmen Abroad Must be United Before They Could Expect Aid From the People on This Side of the Water.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—Less than 250 delegates were in their seats in response to the call issued over a month ago by President Fitzgerald of the Irish National League of America for a convention to begin in Central Music hall yesterday. There was an utter absence of jovialty and enthusiasm, and even the old Irish airs failed to awaken more than a ripple of applause.

Secretary Sutton called the convention to order a few minutes before noon. He expressed his regret that painful circumstances prevented the attendance of President Fitzgerald and the first vice-president, Patrick Martin, of Baltimore, both of whom are on beds of sickness.

He went on to say that they had assembled from all parts of the country in spite of a hostile public opinion, created—God knew and God help them—by men themselves Irish.

They had met, however, for a sacred purpose. They should think only of the land that gave them birth, but for God's sake, concluded the speaker as he brought his fist down on the desk, "don't let the old cause die; keep the movement going; keep it on a business basis; keep it in line for victory."

Secretary Sutton concluded by reading the call for the convention.

O'Neill Ryan, of St. Louis, was chosen chairman by acclamation. He made an earnest address which was repeatedly punctuated with applause. They were there, he said, representing 12,000,000 of the Irish race, who demanded union and strength on the other side of the water.

They had come as nationalists and to assert the right of the Irish people to govern themselves, but they were not assembled to uphold any man or any set of men, any faction or any part of a faction. (Loud applause.)

They were there to say to the Irish people that when they presented a strong, a vigorous, a united policy, then and not until then could they depend upon receiving the moral and material support of the American people.

The speaker went on to say that those composing this convention proposed to stamp out any discord that might intrude itself. Speaking through a united party, and above all, the latter must stand alone from either of the two great English parties. (Prolonged applause.)

With such a unity and such a policy the party could again command the moral, material and financial support of those on this side of the ocean.

NATIONAL BANK NOTES.

Washington, Oct. 2.—The comptroller of the currency has issued a statement showing that on October 1 the total amount of national bank notes outstanding aggregated $171,817,319, a decrease for the month of September of $9,917,739.

SMITH FOR CONGRESS.

Huron, S. D., Oct. 2.—W. H. Smith, of Minnehaha county, was nominated for congress on the third ballot by the independents. The platform pledges allegiance to the principles of the national people's party and urges the appointment of a non-partisan commission to adjust the details of the tariff.

A DEADLY PROTEST.

Farmer Baldwin Meets a Sudden Death.

He Left His Step-Son Out in the Cold With the Above Fatal Result.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 2.—Farmer Baldwin, living 14 miles west of Blair, was shot and instantly killed by a step-son named Long. Long also killed a son of Baldwin at the same time.

Baldwin was the father of two sons and a daughter, and these, with Long, lived on the farm with him. Recently Baldwin decided to remove to Blair and to leave his sons and daughter to manage the farm.

Long was left entirely out of the arrangement and in an altercation about the matter he seized a gun and shot Baldwin and one of the boys and made his escape. The county is in arms, hunting for him.

TALKING DEMOCRACY.

Upper Sandusky, Oct. 2.—(Special)—Hon. G. W. Hewitt, of Connecticut, addressed the democracy of this city at Lime's opera house last evening. He handled the tariff and silver questions in a masterly manner and was attentively listened to by an appreciative audience.

THE MAN FROM PERU

Will Henceforth be Known by Number Only.

The Greatest Dynamiter Living Sent to Prison.

History of a Man Whose Career Has Kept Criminal Officers All Over the Land.

Belvidere, N. J., Oct. 2.—Aime Louis Barraud, the most persistent and notorious dynamiter living, has been sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $1,000 for blowing up a section of railroad track at Kennedy station, on the Lehigh Valley road, on September 9.

Barraud pleaded guilty to the charge. He got the full penalty of the law from Judge Scudder.

On the night of September 9 Barraud took a bundle of dynamite cartridges from Bethlehem, Pa., out to Kennedy, four miles from Phillipsburg, this state. He placed the cartridges under the flange of the rail just at the end of a little bridge. In a few minutes a pusher engine backed down upon the infernal machine and there was a terrific explosion. A piece of rail five feet long was blown out and carried away 250 feet. The engine was derailed. A delayed passenger train narrowly escaped being wrecked.

Barraud went to Easton, Pa., after watching the effect of his dynamite bomb. He locomotive. In that city he was recognized by a policeman who had arrested him seven or eight years ago. The officer arrested the dynamiter. He has made no defense for himself in the case.

Barraud, widely known as "the man from Peru," and also as "Lewis Ramel," has had a marvelous career. He was born in Paris, and is 43 years old. He came to New York when a boy, and was a studious pupil in the public schools, taught a Sunday school class, and when 19 years old he was sent to an insane asylum by his mother. He had strange delusions. He imagined that he had sold a scroll-saw to the government for $25,000 and was a major in the army. The young man fell in love, but his mother would not listen to a marriage. He went to Paris, and again was put in an asylum. Then he studied engineering, went to Chicago about the time of the great fire, and did surveying. He made considerable money and was married.

The first dynamiting exploit conceived by Barraud was the attempt to blow up the Hudson river steamer Drew. He exploded six pounds of powder in his stateroom just to see the excitement of the passengers and the women who would rush out in their night-dresses. For this crime he was sentenced to seven years in the New York state prison.

Later, in 1885, he left Plattsburg, N. Y., with three dynamite cartridges, which he put under the rail on the Delaware & Hudson road. There was no explosion, as Barraud himself signaled the train to stop. However, he was suspected, and again he got a seven-year sentence. By good behavior he got out in four years and nine months.

On Dec. he played ghost in Central park, New York. He pulled off his clothes and in the evening ran through the park, frightening women and children almost out of their senses.

Not long afterward he went to Philadelphia, and from there to Atlantic City. There was a fashionable ball at a private house. Barraud undressed, all but his shirt, jumped into the ocean and then ran into the ball-room shivering. He said he was on a steamer and had been wrecked. Many lives were lost, he declared, and the party broke up.

This summer he was at Ocean Grove, and attempted to blow up the board walk with dynamite to scare the girls.

In 1878 he went to Easton, Pa. He wrote articles for local newspapers, signing himself as "The Man from Peru," from which he derived his sobriquet.

From there the rascal went to Bethlehem, where he pretended to be a French engineer. He purchased nearly $1,000,000 worth of steel rails from the iron works at that place. Of course, he had no money and the rails were never delivered.

In New York shortly afterward he drew a check for $200,000 on the Bank of North America. The cashier would not give him the cash. Barraud told the police authorities that there was something up with the bank, and the cashier was shadowed by detectives. Then the dynamiter was sent to the asylum again.

Barraud has lately told the whole story of his life. He is 5 feet 6 inches tall, and weighs 114 pounds. He wears a full beard, which is light brown, and the top of his head is bald. The only reason he gives for his many crimes is that he wanted "to have fun."

BROKE UP THE PRACTICE.

Ghastly Traffic in Dead Men's Bones.

Three Men Stoned to Death in China.

They Were Caught With a Boat Load of Human Bones and the Angry Crowd Showed No Mercy.

San Francisco, Oct. 1.—A Shanghai letter says: The people of Yue Yer, in the district of Shoahsing, have been greatly excited lately owing to the discovery that some miscreants had been opening graves and carrying off bodies.

Three men and a boy have been caught at this ghastly work. The men were in a boat, and being strangers in the district were ordered to stop by some of the people who had formed themselves into a vigilance committee.

The men proceeded throwing overboard a number of bags. They were pursued, and finding themselves overtaken jumped overboard. Finally they were captured and some of the bags were fished up and found to contain dead men's bodies, upon which the country people stoned the three men to death.

The boy was brought before the authorities for trial, when he confessed that he and the men were hired by other men to break open graves and steal the bones, for which they were paid $600 a boat load. What the bones were wanted for is a mystery.

FITZSIMMONS HEARD FROM.

The Fittsburg Murderer Writes to His Friends.

He Sends a Thousand Dollars to His Lawyer to Secure a New Trial For His Wife.

Pittsburg, Oct. 2.—The murderer Fitzsimmons, who shot Detective Gilkisson, and who recently escaped from the county jail here, was heard from yesterday.

He sent $1,000 to his attorney, Thomas M. Marshall, to obtain a new trial for his wife, who was indicted with him, and after his escape, found guilty of murder in the second degree.

THE FATHER'S END

Of the Cow Makes a Laughable Case for a Toledo Justice.

A very laughable case is on in one of the local justice's courts. A father and son took it into their heads to purchase a cow, and when they found the desirable animal they did so, with the understanding that the old gentleman was to keep her in his barn and the boy was to be half owner. A few days after the purchase, when the cow was comfortably lodged in its new quarters, the son went over with a pail to his father's house to get some milk, whereupon the sire kicked emphatically at the boy's taking away the lactial delight, for, he argued, "the front end of the cow is yours, my son, while the hind end, the milk, belongs to me."

The youth was mad, but the father's word was law, and no more milk did he get. Finally, one day while he was walking around the cow the animal kicked him with her hind leg and left him with a pain that he remembered for a few days. Here was his chance, and he has brought suit to recover damages for injuries received from the legs of his father's end of the cow.

GOULD FALLS IN A FAINT

When Opposed in Board Meeting by Sage.

Sensational Proceedings While Discussing the Affairs of the Missouri Pacific.

New York, Oct. 2.—There was a story rife in Wall street yesterday that Jay Gould had been stricken with apoplexy.

Undoubtedly the story had its foundation in a very remarkable incident which occurred at the meeting of the Missouri Pacific directors, the facts of which leaked out from several gentlemen who were present.

The question of passing the quarterly dividend came up and on motion of Mr. Gould, who made a long statement as to the condition of the company, it was formally decided to declare no dividend for the current quarter.

Then Russell Sage had an inning, and to the surprise of every one and to Mr. Gould's consternation, he moved to reconsider the action of the board.

Mr. Gould was evidently under a severe mental strain and had shown his extreme nervousness in the earlier proceedings. When Mr. Sage made his motion he attempted to oppose it, but suddenly became ghastly pale and sank back in his chair, it is said, in a fit of nervous prostration.

Then he became hysterical and wept and laughed alternately, and at first all efforts to quiet him were unavailing. The directors were almost panic stricken and the condition of Mr. Gould shocked them beyond measure.

The physician who now constantly attends Mr. Gould, was called in and after a time he overcame the nervous excitement of his patient, and Mr. Gould left the board room in his company.

After his father went out it is said that George Gould took Mr. Sage to task very savagely for thus disturbing his parent's equilibrium and the old gentleman became quite rattled under the castigation which he received for his unfortunate break.

BOULANGER'S LAST WORDS.

Regrets He Did Not Die on the Battlefield.

To be Buried by the Side of His Mistress Together With Her Photograph and a Lock of Hair.

Brussels, Oct. 2.—The remains of Gen Boulanger have been placed in a coffin the outer casing of which, in accordance with the desire of the deceased, is an exact duplicate of the one which contains the remains of Mme. de Bonnemain.

The political testament of the dead general was read at a private meeting of his friends held in the hotel in the Rue Montoyer. The text of it is as follows:

"This is my political testament. It is my desire that it be published after my death. I shall kill myself to-morrow. I am convinced of the future of the party to which I have given my name. I cannot bear the frightful misfortune which befel me two and a half months ago. I have tried to get the better of it, but have not succeeded.

I am persuaded that my followers are so devoted and so numerous that they will bear me no anger for disappearing on account of a sorrow so great that all work has become impossible. Let them remember that maxim, Uno Avulso non Deficit Alter, and may they continue then to act against those who, in scorn of all laws, force me to die far from my country.

"To-morrow I shall be a dead man; to-day I have nothing to reproach myself with. All my life I have done my duty, and nothing but my duty. My death is no shame to myself, but is a shame for my proscribers, those who sought to brand a loyal soldier by the judgment of a political tribunal.

I desire to recall the fact that I have many times offered to constitute myself a prisoner if they would accord me common law judges. This the holders of power have always refused. Thus acquittal was not possible. In quitting life I have but one regret—that I have not died on the field of battle, fighting for my country. That country at least will permit one of its children at the moment of returning into nothingness to recall himself to the memory of all lovers of La Patrie. Vive la France. Vive la Republic.

"Done and signed under my hand on the eve of the day of my death.

"ERNEST BOULANGER."

BOOM IN TOBACCO.

Springfield, Mass., Oct. 2.—The prices of tobacco have advanced from 3 to 8 cents per pound in 10 days and sales run from 18 to 25 cents per pound. The Homestead estimates a shortage of 25,000 cases in the supply of wrappers for 1890, and 50,000 shortage for the present year and declares that the acreage next season can be increased 25 per cent. without affecting prices.

CADETS APPOINTED.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Cadets have been appointed to the West Point military academy as follows: James N. Pickering, Beebe, Ark.; Benj. F. Borden, alternate, Cedartown, Ga.

A COVEY OF QUAIL

Visits Court House Park, and Are Protected by the Police.

Yesterday a covey of plump quail alighted in the Court House park and spent the day in scurrying about the small shrubbery in the park. The small boy, of course, was on hand ready for wholesale slaughter, but a policeman stepped in and stopped the youngsters' prospective fun by threatening to arrest any one who killed a bird.

The season for killing quail will not open until October 15, and there is a penalty of $50 and imprisonment for any one found killing quail before that day.

This entire section, and particularly in the high land along the Ottawa river, is fairly alive this season with quail, and rare sport is promised huntsmen when the season opens.

MR. DONAVAN'S OPINIONS

Thinks That Governor Campbell Will Win.

The Next Congress and Probable Legislation.

The Congressman-Elect at His Home—An Indefatigable and Energetic Worker, He Deserves Success.

Deshler, Oct. 2.—(Special)—Congressman D. D. Donavan lives at this place and is one of the most indefatigable workers in it. He has been an energetic, hustling sort of fellow all his life, and to this more than anything else may be ascribed his business and political success, the latter of which has landed him in congress, while he is yet a very young man.

Mr. Donavan has the personal friendship of more men in his neighborhood than any other man, and he takes good care to cherish these friends.

Nobody ever goes to him with a request for a reasonable favor without being accommodated, and there is no man in Deshler or in the vicinity about with a freer or more generous nature. He enjoys the respect of all who know him, and his career in the lower house of congress will be closely watched.

Since his election last fall Mr. Donavan has continued to reside in his old home, except for the time he was at Columbus. Political preferment seems to make no radical changes in his habits or methods, and he is always ready to do a little hustling for the democratic party.

A Bee called upon him for a few moments and found him enthusiastic for Campbell and the entire democratic ticket.

"Talk of beating the governor," said he, "who talks about that? Nobody but our republican friends, and they always were ready to claim everything in sight. McKinley has not made votes by swinging around the circle dispensing his stock arguments in favor of protection and high taxes. People are not such blooming idiots as they were a few years ago. Then they had not investigated the tariff question, and took whatever was given them in the way of protection argument without question. Now they understand it much better, and many farmers can give politicians pointers on the economic questions.

"Governor Campbell has been so unfortunate as to be ill, but his sickness came at a time when no injury was done by his taking time to recuperate his health. McKinley and Sherman are not talking similarly upon the questions at issue, and Foraker has taken the warpath against Sherman. With the republican party thus engaged in a hopeless wrangle, and democrats harmonious and aggressive, there is no reason why democracy should not be triumphant."

"What will the new congress do?"

"I haven't the least idea, but I trust it will make an effort to ameliorate the condition of the people, so far as the tariff is concerned. It will undoubtedly make such an effort."

Mr. Donavan will go to Washington about the middle of November and will make arrangements for his sojourn there during the time congress is in session.

He is of the opinion that either Mills or Springer will be chosen speaker of the next house.

COTTON PICKERS' STRIKE

Savannah Expects to See Some Blood Shed.

White Men to be Put to Work in the Fields.

Twenty Thousand Ball Cartridges Distributed Among the Soldiers—Hundreds of Special Officers.

Savannah, Ga., Oct. 2.—Savannah expects trouble as a result of the great strike and has prepared for it by swearing in a large number of special policemen.

Last night large details of well-armed men were placed at the several armories to prevent any attempt that reckless strikers might make to obtain the arms and ammunition stored there.

There is a general feeling of apprehension and it is feared a disturbance may occur at any moment.

Several hundred white laborers are to be brought from New York and other points to take the places of the strikers. The new men will be protected no matter at what cost.

Twenty thousand ball cartridges have been distributed among the military and the police, and the authorities have no fear that they will not be able to suppress any disorder. The financial loss to the city is enormous.

AGAIN POSTPONED.

Blaine Not Ready to Do the Talking.

So President Harrison Has Postponed the Much Discussed Trade Conference.

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 2.—Lord Stanley, governor general, received intimation from Washington yesterday that President Harrison requested a postponement of the reciprocity conference arranged to take place in that city October 12 between representatives of the dominion and the United States.

The reason given for the postponement is the continued ill health of Secretary Blaine. The letter was submitted to a cabinet council meeting last night and it was decided to intimate through the proper channels that the Canadian government will be prepared to begin the conference as soon as President Harrison arranges another date.

BANK FAILURE.

Paris, Ill., Oct. 2.—Standiford Brothers, bankers, at Chrisman, this county, have failed. The liabilities are estimated at from $65,000 to $75,000. The assets are not known. Last Saturday A. B. Standiford left for Chicago, saying he would return on Monday. He did not return.

THE WAR IN GUATEMALA.

Americans are Stirring Up the Strife.

Barios, Son of the Dictator, Wants to Rule the Land.

Sensational News Comes From the South Regardless of Contradiction By Government Officers.

Neneton, Guatemala, Oct. 2.—News of the most sensational nature has been received here during the past 24 hours. It ise stated direct from the city of Guatemala that the army of 10,000 men is receiving constant accessions from the country through which it is marching and is approaching the capital in the direction of Quezaltenango.

Nothing more is known, as the wires are in the hands of the government. The capital is under martial law and the streets are patrolled night and lay by mounted police.

Troops have been dispatched from the city, it is said, for the purpose of intercepting the march of the revolutionists on the capital. Great uneasiness has been occasioned by the report that Salvador is massing troops along the frontier of Guatemala and Hunduras.

Whether this is being done as a precautionary measure or for the purpose of invasion cannot be ascertained.

Antonio Ezeta, who is a brother of President Ezeta and who took a prominent part in the recent Salvador-Guatemala war, has returned in haste from San Salvador, the capital, to Santa Ana, his headquarters, and the key to the frontier of Guatemala.

General Molino is reported to have gone in haste to the departments of the East, on the Honduras frontier. There is considerable excitement in Salvador regarding the revolt in Guatemala.

A retired American officer, a resident of this city, and whose truthfulness is not to be doubted, but for good reasons desires the withholding of his name, recites this story:

"Three Americans, with plenty of money, visited this city two months ago. They apparently had no object in view other than that of pleasure. He was introduced to them through their request, and the same day an interview followed.

"To him they disclosed the fact that they represented a revolutionary party in New York that had for its object the downfall of the Barrillas government in Guatemala, and were supplied with funds to carry the movement to a successful issue.

"The officer inferred from the interview that Barios, the son of the ex-Dictator to Guatemala, resident in New York, was ambitious to become president, and was furnishing money to bring about the desired result.

"Their plan of action, as explained to the retired military man was to send experienced military officers into Guatemala, ten or fifteen at a time.

"They were to be met by emissaries of the revolutionary movement and distributed throughout the republic and when the time was ripe were to take command of the revolutionary troops.

"While not positively known, it is believed that several American officers were offered commissions but they refused to take part in the movement."

He believes the revolution is due to New York parties, who are furnishing funds and ammunition to the insurgents.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

A Bad Man Brought to Time in the West.

His Sweetheart Gave Him Away and He is Now Safely Behind the Bars.

Shoals, Ind., Oct. 2.—Sheriff Albert Taylor of Dubois county has arrested Joseph Crabtree for murder. The grand jury recently returned an indictment against Crabtree and Wm. Walters for the murder of Stanford Freeman, a wealthy farmer of Lost River township, this county, on Thursday, Oct. 8, 1885. Since that time Walters murdered two men, named Bledsaw and Stritt, in Orange county, over a game of cards, and is now serving a term of 21 years in the Jeffersonville prison.

Stanford Freeman was an industrious and wealthy farmer and was supposed to keep considerable money about his person. On the night of Oct. 8, 1885, while in his barn, he was confronted by a masked man, who covered him with a revolver and commanded him to throw up his hands. Sturdy old Farmer Freeman, grabbing a club, made for the burglar, who beat a hasty retreat, firing four shots from his revolver. Freeman escaped unscratched.

In his retreat the burglar fell over a trough and old man Freeman was in the act of striking him when a second masked man sprang from his place of concealment and fired four shots a Freeman, two of which struck him about the hips. Freeman fell and the assassins fled without securing any valuables.

At that time the Archer gang was in power in that section of the country and the crime was supposed to have been committed by some of its members, but not the slightest clew could be discovered.

At the time Walters committed the murder of the two men in Orange county, Crabtree fled with him to Arkansas and was there when Walters was arrested. The first clew implicating them as the murderers of Freeman was given a few days since by Miss Mel Andrews, who was Walters' sweetheart at the time of the murder, and she said that Walters threatened to kill her if she ever gave him away.

Walters being a desperate character, she remained silent. Crabtree says he was with Walters at the time of his arrest in Arkansas; that he was in Dubois county, near where Freeman was murdered, but that he knows nothing of the crime.

INCENDIARY ARRESTED.

Boston Police Make a Valuable Capture.

A Man Behind the Bars Who is Believed to Have Caused Eighteen Conflagrations.

Boston, Oct. 2.—Louis Schneitzer, a Jew about 60 years old, was arrested last night charged with setting fire to the dwelling of Jacob Levine. Schneitzer, who was detected almost in the act of firing the house, has been under suspicion for some time past as an incendiary, and was closely watched, resulting in his arrest last night. The police believe that no less than 18 fires have been started by him in the past three or four years.

Levine's family, who were out at the time of Schneitzer's attempt at incendiarism, claim not to know the prisoner. There is said to be an insurance on the property, however, largely out of proportion to its real value and their case will be investigated.

RUNNING THEM DOWN.

Negro Rioters Being Hunted by Bloodhounds.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 2.—Since the killing of Overseer Miller on the Frank's plantation on Saturday, a posse of citizens have been after the rioting negro cotton pickers in Lee county, Arkansas.

A number found refuge in a large canebreak which was surrounded, and the lines patrolled by white citizens.

Tuesday a party of eight negroes attempted to escape. Three of them were shot. One named Peyton was killed instantly. Robert Patterson, leader of the band, was fatally shot and six others wounded.

The excited captors wanted to lynch them, but they were marched to the Lee county jail at Marianna. Yesterday morning bloodhounds were put on the tracks of the fugitives in the canebrake.

Escape is almost impossible, and if the negroes resist they will be killed. The county is much unsettled and cotton picking is at a standstill.

BOULANGER'S FUNERAL.

Brussels, Oct. 2.—It has been announced that the funeral of Gen. Boulanger will take place on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 3. The contents of the general's will are not to be divulged to-day.

IN A COAT OF THORNS.

Roosevelt Will Never be Forgiven by Republicans

For Getting Harrison in Such an Unsavory Mix.

Another Investigation of Postmaster Johnson to be Had in Order to Show That the Commissioner Was Wrong.

Washington, Oct. 2.—President Harrison is between the devil and the deep sea in the case of Postmaster Johnson of Baltimore.

It has been a long time since Mr. Roosevelt made his investigation of Mr. Johnson's political machine, and the civil service commission reported the results to the president, showing that the theory upon which the Baltimore postoffice was run was that the civil service law was a farce and that federal offices were given to politicians to be manipulated for the benefit of the administration.

The conclusions in this report were backed up by an abundance of testimony and by bold and defiant admissions of some of Mr. Ward's workers and employes.

The president, however, has taken no notice of the report, publicly, and the discussion of the matter by his friends points to the conclusion that his resentment is provoked against Mr. Roosevelt for making the investigation.

Postmaster General Wanamaker, who is directly interested in the matter, is very angry, indeed, at Mr. Roosevelt's impertinence, and if he could see his way to do so the president, by the advice and consent of the Postmaster General, would retire the energetic reformer from the commission.

After reading the report of the commission there did not seem to be anything left for Mr. Harrison to do but to remove Postmaster Johnson, yet that gentleman still holds his position, and a scheme has been proposed for whitewashing him and discrediting the report of the commission.

The political work Mr. Johnson and his postoffice employes were engaged in was in the interest of Mr. Harrison, and, naturally, he feels the delicacy of the administration to condone his offense against the law. The investigation by the commission was impartial and thorough, and the evidence was overwhelmingly adverse to the postoffice officials, showing clearly that the Baltimore postoffice was a political machine and so regarded by all the employes.

Postmaster Johnson has written a letter to Mr. Wanamaker, probably at his suggestion, asking for another investigation to determine whether or not Mr. Roosevelt's investigation was fair, and it is the desire of Mr. Wanamaker that the request shall be granted and that the investigation shall be made under his own supervision by republican postoffice inspectors whose allegiance is to the administration only, and who can be depended on to make such a report as is desired by Mr. Wanamaker, the president and Mr. Johnson.

Mr. Wanamaker has no love for Mr. Roosevelt, who has shown him up in a very bad light as a pretended civil service reformer, but if he can have such an investigation as he wants he may be able to gratify his enmity towards the commissioner and whitewash Mr. Johnson at the same time.

The president is a little afraid, however, to go as far as Mr. Wanamaker desires, but is concocting a plan of his own for getting out of the difficulty—without disturbing Johnson if possible.

The commission has not been encouraged to extend the investigation into the workings of other postoffices where it is evident that the same sort of political machine is being run, but the probability is that the next congress will take the matter up and make a thorough investigation of Mr. Harrison's civil service methods, including Mr. Wanamaker's "country-postoffice-inspection" plan of political organization.

A RACE FOR LIFE.

Ranchman Saved by a Mustang.

The Noble Animal Went Through Fire and Smoke With His Master on His Back.

San Francisco, Oct. 2.—An exciting race for life is reported from the mountains back of Santa Monica, where a brush fire got underway and has been burning fiercely over the country for a couple of days.

A young settler named Wilson, who had built himself a cabin in the mountains, was asleep when the flames reached his house and was not awakened until the fire almost roasted him.

When he reached the door he thought his last day had come, for the flames and dense smoke shot up on all sides for several hundred feet and he could see no outlet.

He owns one of the toughest little mustangs in the country. He placed wet blankets over the animal's head and body, and the bronco dashed into the flames, and for a quarter of a mile Wilson, who was more dead than alive, expected his horse to drop dead every step.

But the mustang kept his pace and dashed into the clear space ahead of the crackling sea of flames. Wilson thought he was safe and attempted to slow up the mustang. But the horse understood the situation better than his master, and, in spite of Wilson's efforts, dashed on.

It was well he did, for in a few minutes the fire bounded across the cleared spot and was on the heels of the horse.

Wilson was terribly burned about the head and face and blistered wherever the skin was exposed. The mustang was also badly burned. Many houses were destroyed by the fire, and it is possible that the late reports will show some loss of life. The fire is now under control.

The Russian nobility are in comparatively as wretched circumstances as the peasantry. In October there will be nearly nine hundred estates belonging to nobles sold by auction at the instance of the state bank that has loaned them money on mortgages. The estate will bring far less than their mortgage value, on account of the inability of Jews, foreigners, or foreign syndicates to acquire landed property.

NOT BETTER THAN THIEEVS

Ohio Republicans Scored by Curtis.

Open Violation of the Law of the Land.

Penitentiary Birds and Men of No Moral Standing Hired to Gather Census Statistics by Porter.

Buffalo, Oct. 2.—At the annual meeting of the National Civil Service league in this city, the address of George William Curtis attracted unusual attention. He said in part:

"The formation of the National Civil Service Reform league was not, as sometimes it has been pleasantly represented, a whim of amiable gentlemen who had a fancy for new fashions in politics, for spinning moonbeams and dipping water in a sieve. The spirit of reform is the instinct of order and progress and as old as government. It is the creative instinct moving upon the face of the waters.

"The passage of the law was the first great victory of the 10 years of reform movement. The second is the demonstration of the complete practicability of reform attested by the heads of the largest offices of administration in the country.

"Another happy advantage of the reform in this retrospect has been the character and efficiency of the national civil service commission.

"It was easy for President Arthur, after he had approved the bill, to paralyze reform by the appointment of commissioners who had no faith in the law and no heart inhis proper inforcement. But he honestly placed at the head of the commission one of the most conspicuous, intelligent and earniest friends of reform.

"President Cleveland, to whose personal interest while governor of New York the passage of the reform law in this state was chiefly due, had demonstrated the sincerity of his purpose by the appointment of a state civil service commission, whose personal character and ability and unswerving fidelity to the cause were not only the earnest of the honest observance of the law, but commended the reason and the essential value of reform to the sound judgment of the state. As president, Mr. Cleveland enlarged the range of the classified service, revised and strengthened the rules of the commission and sustained it in the firm enforcement of the law.

"President Harrison's selection of civil service commissioners, also, was in strict conformity to the spirit of the platform upon which he was elected and to his own professions and pledges as a candidate, and he also has extended somewhat the classified service.

"I am speaking only of the fidelity of the three presidents to the commission. The league has pronounced its judgment upon the conduct of each of the administrations since the passage of the law in regard to civil service reform in general.

"The moral obligation of reform, as I have said, is not limited to the classified service. If its principles are sound they are as applicable to public offices employing 49 clerks as to those employing 50, and an administration which observes the letter of the law in apointing the 50, but makes spoils of the 49, is not a civil service reform administration, as a man who gets drunk occasionally is not a temperate man.

"It was doubtless in recognition of this truth and to seem to conform to the highest standard that the platform of the party of administration declared that 'the spirit and purpose of reform should be observed in all executive appointments.' It did not say that reform should apply to 30,000 employes only of the 120,000 employes of the government, and that the rest should be treated as spoils, but that the spirit of reform, whatever the method of appointment, should be observed throughout the service.

"When, therefore, the assistant postmaster-general endeared himself to the chief administration agent of spoils in New York, by cutting off official heads as fast as possible, he violated the express pledge of his party to respect the spirit of reform as much as if, being a soldier of the union, he had broken the orders of the march and disgraced his flag and the president, by tolerating such riot of contempt for his own professions and for the promises of his party, made all such promises contemptible, and forfeited the claim of his administration to be considered a reform administration. Keeping one pledge does not condone breaking another. A party, like a man, is certainly not bound to make a promise. But if it promises and breaks the pledge, although a party is an elusive entity, a vote is not, and punishment is possible.

"Still another victory is the fact that the system of party assessments on the civil service and the kindred evil of the interference of office-holders in elections are now so effectually stigmatized by public opinion that although not abandoned they have become disgraceful. The effort to justify the levying of blackmail by party committees of congress or of local districts, and to defend the moral coercion of public employes by irresponsible officers of the government, has disappeared in the contemptuous scorn of public common sense. Undoubtedly the practice in some degree still continues, as the last disgraceful letter of the Ohio republican state executive committee shows, but only as sneak-thieving and pocket-picking continue after laws are enacted to prevent them.

"In the state convention of the administration party this year in New York, where in other years I have seen the collector of the port of New York, in person, openly directing the votes of his subordinates, the office-holding force again appeared, and the chief figure in the convention of the party whose national platform demands that the reform shall be extended to every branch of the service and its spirit observed in every appointment was that chief state agent of spoils, who gaily proclaims that officers endear themselves to him not by fidelity or efficiency, but by violation of their party pledges and by making the public service party plunder. The comedy of the autumn campaign is that the platform of a convention directed by the chief administration spoilsman in the state reaffirms the affection of the party for 'thorough genuine civil service reform.'

"But these are only incidents of a battle which is still raging. Here and there the line is pushed back and broken. Here, there is an advantage, there a reverse, although the general advance is plain."

The speaker then reviewed the work of the past year, telling how the New York court of appeals had sustained the constitutionality of the law in a case against the city of Buffalo, how the quotas of appointments under the rules among the several states have been adjusted, how the rules for several Indian agencies have been extended, and how attempts have been made to bring public school teachers under the law.

An Awful Rebuke.

The special committee appointed to inquire into the condition of the federal civil service and the operation of the reform laws have completed their report. The signers of the same were William Dudley Foulke, Charles J. Bonaparte, Richard H. Dana, Wayne MacVeagh, Sherman S. Rogers.

Quotations follow:

"If the promise of the republican platform has any significance at all, it meant that the president would extend this competitive system to the clerks of the census bureau, when that bureau should be established. Mr. Harrison, in accepting and adopting the platform, distinctly made this promise his own, and emphasized it by the declaration that in appointments to every grade and department, fitness, and not party service, should be the essential and discriminating test,' and in the statement that 'further extensions of the classified list were necessary and desirable.'

"The president was indeed solicited by the civil service commissioners to cause a system of competitive examinations to be adopted for the census clerks, but he declined to have this done, and, in the words of the superintendent of the census, the examinations required by the rules were not competitive, but merely tested the qualifications of such candidates only as might be designated for examination by the superintendent of the census. It thus appears that the superintendent was permitted to retain in his own hands the power of making nominations, without which, admission to the census bureau was impossible.

"The well-known opinions of Mr. Porter who was selected by the president to administer his office, made it certain that these appointments would become in a great measure matters of political patronage.

"The great mass of officials, clerks, supervisors and enumerators came from the republican party. Whatever the motive was, such a line of conduct was sure to discredit the result.

"A careful inquiry made by your committee as to the character of the enumerators appointed shows that, while in some places political considerations had no weight and the work was, on the whole, well performed, yet the supervisors were influential in many other cases by partisan considerations. Men were often chosen without reference to their fitness on account of their political services; and in such cases the work was often badly done and in many instances thoroughly discredited.

"As far as can be learned, the census was fairly well taken in Massachusetts. It was under the charge of a man who superintended the state census of 1885. Appointments were not made there for political reasons. The same is true of the first district of Maryland, where the supervisor was a well-known statistical expert.

"The report furnished us by the secretary of the civil service association at Bangor, Me., informs us that in that city the census seems to have been conducted in an impartial manner, and the men employed appear to have been selected for their efficiency.

"From the secretary of the civil service reform association at Madison, Wis., your committee learned that the character of those employed in the numeration was extremely various, some competent and some quite the reverse. One of the enumerators was so illiterate as to be unable to spell the most ordinary words and names, such as 'Samuel,' 'Canada,' lawyer,' etc. Others are supposed to have been appointed solely as matters of patronage,their appointment sbeing controlled by the republican members of congress and the postmaster of Madison. The result of the census was most disappointing to the citizens, and the accuracy of the count is seriously questioned by men of both parties.

"The secretary of the Civil Service Reform association at Norwich, Conn., says of the enumerators: 'They are the men who are ready for odd jobs, given in the way party jobs usually are. I do not believe that a high degree of confidence is felt in the accuracy of the count, from such information as I can gather. So far as the statistics of industries and general business are concerned, I am strongly of the belief that very little confidence is felt in their accuracy.'

"Undoubtedly the worst effects of the patronage system of appointments are apparent in the city of New York. One C. H. Murray, a republican politician, was made supervisor of the census of that city.

"Police Inspector Byrnes states: 'I know that some of the enumerators in this city were thieves. This very morning one of these enumerators came here to call upon me. He had been three times an inmate of the state prison.

"He was appointed on the recommendation of a republican judge. This thief's name is known to all the city detectives, and his picture occupies a prominent place in the rogues' gallery. He did not take the oath in his own name, and his dealings with the census bureau were under an alias.'

"Your committee consider that the following propositions have been established by the results of their inquiries:

"1. That the refusal to apply the civil service reform system of open non-partisan competitive examinations in appointments to the clerical force of the census bureau was violation by the president of a promise contained in the republican platform in 1888, and indorsed in his letter of acceptance.

"2. That by the appointment of enumerators on political grounds, in open violation of section 5 of the census act, great numbers of incompetent men have been engaged in taking the census, and that in many places attempts have been made to use official posiions for the benefit of the party in power.

"3. That while in some places the results of the work appear to be free from partisan color and to be accurately and well done, yet in many places the work has been carelessly and badly done, and is open to the suspicion that partisan considerations have not been absent, and that finally there is a widespread distrust of the accuracy of the census, which greatly impairs its value to the country, and which is caused in great measure by the fact that the census bureau has been conducted upon the spoils system.

"Your committee desires to express its belief that no census will hereafter receive the confidence of the people until it has been wholly removed from partisan influences; and they trust that in the future such successful examples as have already been made of the merit system will be followed in all federal enumerations.

EXPELLED FROM CHURCH.

Witterling's Case Settled at Tiffin.

The Session of the Synod Confirmed the Finding of the Galion Conference.

Tiffin, O., Oct. 2—(Special)—The session of the Wittenberg synod of the Lutheran church was largely devoted to a hearing of the case of Rev. Witterling, formerly at the head of a charge at Lucas, Richland county.

The accused was charged with gross immorality with one or more of the members of his flock, and at the meeting of the conference at Galion last winter was convicted.

He appealed to the synod and after the hearing of the case this morning the finding of the conference was affirmed and Mr. Witterling was formally expelled from the ministry and the church.

TRIED AND PROVEN TRUE.

No Room for Doubt—Mr. McLean Pointedly States How He Was Relieved of An Aggravated Catarrhal Trouble.

Catarrh is the most common of all diseases in this vicinity and is probably the cause, directly and indirectly, of more deaths than any other chronic disease we know of. A person who suffers from catarrh is so gradually and insidiously run down in health and their constitutions so weakened that they are more liable to attacks of acute diseases, and are in constant danger of succumbing to some form of fever or lung disease. When taken in its incipiency catarrh can be easily cured, and even in its most chronic form it only takes, as a rule, some three months to cure it.

The case of Mr Charles E. McLean, residing at 935 Indiana avenue, connected with the dyeing establishment of Roth & Friedman, illustrates how the evil effects of a chronic catarrhal trouble may be overcome by Drs. Copeland and Buffett's method of treatment.

MR. C. E. M'LEAN, 935 INDIANA AVE.

so debilitated had I grown. My days were spent in misery.

"I called at Drs. Copeland and Buffett's office, and after being examined I took treatment. They have worked wonders in my case. My troubles have disappeared, owing to the skillful treatment I received of these physicians. I cannot recommend them too highly."

"I have been for a number of years past a constant sufferer from aggravated hay fever. I was obliged quit w rk early last, so trouble some had my affection become. I had tried nearly everything, but to no avail. Since treating with Drs. Copeland and Buffett my trouble has rapidly grown better—so much so that this season is the first in 8v years that I was able to be constantly at work. They have made a remarkable change in my condition, and I most heartily indorse and recommend these gentlemen."

City Auditor's Office.

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 8, 1891.

THE COMMITTEE ON WAYS AND MEANS of the Common Council of the City of Toledo, Ohio, and the undersigned, invite sealed proposals at this office to

at 7 o'clock p. m. for the purchase of street improvement bonds, to the amount of Eight Thousand Two Hundred and Two 22-100 (8,202 22-100) dollars bearing date August 24th 1891 and payable as follows: Six Hundred and Forty two 22-100 dollars on February 24, 1892, and Eight Hundred and Forty dollars at the expiration of every six months thereafter, to and including Aug. 24, 1895. At the office of the City Treasurer, with interest at the rate of five (5) per cent per annum, payable semi-annually at the same place as evidenced by coupons to be attached to said bonds.

Said improvement bonds are issued pursuant to section 2704 to 2707 of the Revised Statutes of the State of Ohio, and also under an ordinance of the common council of the City of Toledo, Ohio, "To provide for the issue of improvement bonds to pay the cost and expense of the improvement of Vermont avenue, from Adams street to Bancroft street"—passed Aug. 17, 1891.

The denomination of these bonds will be first payment one bond of $642 22-100, and thereafter $500, and one of $340 each payment.

The said bonds will be sold at not less than par and accrued interest to the purchaser.

Bidders will be required to state the gross amount they will pay for the Bonds besides the accrued interest to date of delivery at Toledo, Ohio. They will also be required to deposit with each bid an amount of money or a certified check on some responsible bank equal to at least five (5) per centum of the par value of the Bonds so bid for as a guarantee of good faith, and that the bid so made (if successful) will be fulfilled in accordance with the terms thereof, and the requirements of the law and ordinances. When the bids have been examined and the award made according to law, all moneys or checks deposited as guarantees shall be returned to the depositor, or held by the City Auditor subject to his call, except that of the successful bidder, which shall be held and considered and accepted as part payment of the Bonds so awarded or sold, but should there be any repudiation of the contract or agreement, or refusal to accept and pay for the Bonds so sold, then and in that case the deposit shall be forfeited to the City of Toledo, and shall become the property of said city in compensation for loss and expense incurred by the sale of said bonds and as liquidated damages for nonpaliation of bid. And no bid will be received if not accompanied by money or check aforesaid.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

Proposals should be addressed to the "Auditor of the City of Toledo, Ohio," and be indorsed "Proposals for Vermont Improvement Bonds."

Notice to Contractors.

Islington Street Paving.

SEALED PROPOSALS WILL BE RECEIVED by the undersigned, up to 12 o'clock at noon of Monday,

THE 5th DAY OF OCTOBER, 1891,

for improving Islington street, from Collingwood avenue to Fulton street, by paving the central twenty-six feet thereof with fire-brick, cedar blocks or Trinidad asphalt, together with the necessary grading, curbing, crosswalks, drainage, etc.

The contractor or contractors who shall do the work herein provided for shall be paid in cash within ninety days after completion of the work and acceptance thereof by the city.

All bids must be written with ink and the price of each item shall be written out in full as well as in figures. Each bid must contain the full name of every person interested in the same. All parties filing bids for the matters specified in this notice must deposit with the city clerk on or with bid the sum of two hundred dollars. All deposits to be in cash or certified check on a bank doing a regular banking business in the city of Toledo, and accompanied by an agreement signed by the bidder and two disinterested persons, guaranteeing that if the bid is accepted a contract will be entered into—otherwise the amount deposited to be forfeited to the city; and in case a contract is entered into, said deposit to remain until first estimate of work done (or double the amount of deposit) is reported to the Common Council.

Bidders will be required to indorse their names on the outside of the envelope containing their proposal, and what the bid is for, the same to be filed with the city clerk. Bids not filed in accordance with the above requirements will be rejected.

Blank bids and envelopes can be obtained of the undersigned or of the city civil engineer.

Bidders must specify the time within which they will commence and complete the work after the acceptance of their bid.

Plans and specifications can be seen at the office of the city civil engineer.

The council reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

By order of the council.

C. H. DURIAN, City Clerk.

Anson's Great Club Badly Demoralized.

The League Pennant Floats Bostonward.

The Great Captain's Valuable Men Become Disgusted and Refuse to Play Another Season With Him.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—The Chicago ball club is thoroughly disorganized, and quarrels and bickerings are continually cropping out. Anson has made himself so unpopular with his men that at least six of them will not play with him next season, but propose to jump the club just as soon as their contracts expire. These men are Pfeffer, Burns, Gumbert, Ryan, Wilmot and Kittridge.

Atlantic-Auburndale contest.

In yesterday morning's Commercial there appeared an item from the Auburndales stating that the Atlantics cannot claim the championship. Now we would like to know if the Auburndales can after we having beat them Sunday by a score of 9 to 6 for the championship of the city. We do not have to play them three games, as we only agreed to one, but will accommodate them with two more, on our grounds. If they do not accept this they cannot claim the championship of the city; but the Atlantics are the champions up to to-day and after and will not disband. MANAGER ATLANTIC B. B. C.

GREAT RECORDS.

Richmond, Ind., Oct. 2.—Monbars made a successful attempt to beat his own 2-year stallion record to-day. He was driven a very even mile by Budd Doble, the fractions being made in 34 1-2, 1:08, 1:44 1-2, 2:18 3-4. Justina and Globe were driven double a mile in 2:16. Nelson failed to break his record, his mile being made in 2:11 1-4.

CLEAN SWAN CREEK.

Plan Proposed by the Council Committee on Health.

The action of the health committee of the council last night in deciding to make an effort to have Swan creek cleaned out has met with much favorable comment to-day. At present most of the water in the creek is stagnant and ill-smelling, breeding all kinds of disease. It is proposed to turn the canal into the creek near the asylum and flush it out from there down to the mouth, thus washing the filth into the river where it will be carried away. Several sewers empty into the creek and the offal besides that throw directly into it mostly sinks to the bottom and stays there.

"I think the plan is perfectly feasible," said Harbor master Skeldon, "and something of the kind should be done. The creek is in a fearful condition and would now be worse if it were not for the canal. Every time a vessel passes up it stirs up enough filth and foul gasses to sicken the whole neighborhood."

A TOLEDO MAN'S DEED.

Martin Hobe Again Tries to Kill His Wife,

But Fails and Ends His Own Existence.

Found in the Court House Park at Fremont This Morning With a Bullet Hole Through His Head.

Fremont, O., Oct. 2.—(Special)—A few weeks ago Martin Hobe, of Toledo, endeavored to kill his wife, who had fled to this city for safety.

He struck her on the head with a piece of iron, which fractured her skull. He did not succeed in his object, however, as the woman recovered.

He came to this city again last evening and endeavored to complete his work. He found his wife, and upon entering the house pulled a 32-caliber revolver and fired at her.

The bullet pierced her right hand and struck a hard metal button on her dress which prevented the bullet from accomplishing its mission.

Hobe fled from the house and at an early hour this morning was found dead in the court house park, with a bullet through his head.

When found the body was cold and rigid where he had fallen.

The same revolver with which he had tried to take his wife's life and a bottle of whisky was found beside him.

Suicide was so evident that the coroner declared an inquest unnecessary.

Mrs. Hobe had left him several weeks ago and came to this city with her daughter to get away from him.

He tried repeatedly to have her live with him, and her refusal so angered him that he attempted her life.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept 25, 1891.

The Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association, St. Louis, Mo.:

GENTLEMEN: I am directed by the general executive board of the Knight of Labor to express to you their satisfaction at the termination of the difficulty which has existed between your association and one of our assemblies, and to say that from the inquiries which they have made into all the circumstances surrounding the case, they are fully satisfied that you have throughout desired to act with entire fairness toward our order and your employes. The matter of which we thought we had cause to complain, we now believe have all along been the results of misunderstandings rather than of any willingness on your part to deal unjustly or even unkindly toward you employes or our order.

The board further desires to express the high appreciation in which they have learned to hold your Mr. Adolphus Busch, whose frank and manly readiness to recognize the right of all workingmen has been in pleasing contrast to the arrogance of too many employers of labor.

In conclusion allow me to say that the board considers the settlement arrived at as alike honorable and satisfactory to all concerned, and one which, while reflecting the highest credit upon you, will be gratifying to all friends of organized labor.

JOHN W. HAYES,
Gen'l Sec. Treas., Knights of Labor.

A NEW "GLORIANA."

New York, Oct. 2.—Captain N. G. Harrishoff, designer and builder of the famous forty-six footer Glorianas, has now on his drawing board a new Gloriana.

The new boat is under contract for a yachtsman of this city, but the yachtsman's name is as yet kept a secret. At the Herreshoff works, in Bristol, R. I., the new craft is spoken of as "the new Gloriana," and that probably expresses the character of the boat as well as anything that could be written.

CROWNED HEADS IN DANGER.

Vienna, Oct. 2.—A profound sensation has been created by a dispatch from Reichenberg, Bohemia, which, while announcing the safe arrival at that place of the Emperor Francis-Joseph, also brings the startling news that during last night an attempt was attempt was made to blow up the bridge at Rosenthal, over which he traveled.

$10,000 STOLEN.

Green Bay, Wis., Oct. 2.—It is now reported from Fort Howard that $40,000 in bonds was stolen from McCartney's Exchange bank, instead of $4,000, as first reported. Besides this $40,000 in cash, valuable papers were taken. There is no clue to the robbers.

LOST WITH ALL ON BOARD.

Pensacola, Fla., Oct. 2.—The fishing smack Ada, of this port, which left here for the fishing ground on September 3, is given up as lost. She has neither been seen or heard of since. She carried a crew of six men.

SILVER RESOLUTIONS.

New York, Oct. 2.—The chamber of commerce to-day adopted a resolution calling for the repeal of the coining law for the purchase of 4,500,000 ounces of silver per month.

Cracknels

BY MRS. S. T. RORER,

Principal Philadelphia Cooking School

Add to one quart of sifted flour a half teaspoonful of grated nutmeg, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one of Cleveland's baking powder, a half of salt; mix and rub in four ounces of butter. Add sufficient milk to make a dough. Knead and roll out, spread lightly with soft butter, fold in three, roll out again, and cut with a sharp knife into square cakes. Beat the white of one egg, a tablespoonful of sugar and one of milk together, brush over the tops and bake fifteen minutes in a moderately quick oven.

Use only Cleveland's baking powder, the proportions are made for that.

Cleveland's Baking Powder leavens best because its strength is produced by cream of tartar and soda only, not by ammonia or alum.

SOME SPICY CURRENT TOPICS

Of Local and Neighborhood Interest.

Notes and Comments on Incidents Occurring Daily—Prepared for Readers Who are Hustled for Time.

TAKE YOUR CHOICE.

Residents of Missouri street and other streets in that vicinity say they have been notified by the Northwestern Gas company to choose between a meter or no gas to-day. After to-day all connections will be cut off where the order has not been complied with.

TRYING TO CLEAN UP.

Street Commissioner Bower is making an attempt to clean up some of the streets after the pipe line contractors and finds it a big job. This work of putting in the city natural gas mains and the careless manner in which it has been done has interfered seriously with the cleaning of the streets and has doubled the work.

THE LADIES OF ST. JOHN'S.

The members of St. Annie's Guild of St. John's church, Eleventh street, are arranging for their third monthly reception, to be held at the rectory Thursday, October 8. An enjoyable program will be arranged. The parishioners and their friends will be invited. The young girls of the church, in St. Agnes' Guild talk of holding a sale of fancy goods.

SWANTON RACES.

The races at Swanton will occur next week and will be of a first-class order. $1,200 having been hung up in purses. Ex-Senator Wm. Geyser has about concluded negotiations for the purchase of Ravella, a Cleveland flyer. Ravella is by Heimes, by Harold, who was the sire of Maud S., and has a mark of 2:17 1-2. The price, if the deal goes through, will be $5,000. Ravella will go Thursday in the free-for-all, with Rally Wilkes, Biddy Donavan and other good horses.

STOLE WHEAT.

Deputy Sheriff Horner went to Monclova township yesterday afternoon and arrested two brothers named Frank and Henry Aimes, indicted by the grand jury on the charge of burglary and larceny.

The charges were filed by a farmer named Myers, that the defendants, on September 3, broke into his granary and stole 16 bushels of wheat. They were both arraigned in court this morning. Frank pleaded not guilty and Henry guilty.

TOLEDO RIFLES' HOP.

Fully 800 young ladies and gentlemen gathered at Memorial hall last evening on the occasion of the fifth complimentary hop of the Toledo Rifles. The affair was a big success. Much credit is due to the committee on arrangements, Lieut. L. W. Howard, Lieut. S. B. Stanberry, Sergt. Bliss, Corp. Hettrick, Private Ackerman, Sergt. Scott and Corp. Donovan.

The guests were received by Capt. R. S. Holbrook, Lieut. S. B. Stanberry, Sergt. Graham, Privates Hozman and Vosburgh, and Corp. Howard. The floor committee was composed of Sergt. Banks, Corp. Kane and Privates Repass and Effler. The grand march was led by Sergeant Banks and Miss Maggie Mitchell.

AMONG THE JEWELERS.

L. Tanke, who for years conducted a jewelry store on Summit street, has opened a large establishment in Buffalo and is doing well.

W. E. Page, who was in the jewelry business at 321 Adams street, has removed to Englewood, Ill.

J. W. Flower, of 516 Adams street, has remodeled the interior of his store, putting in new cases, shelves and counters all in oak.

C. P. Goodwin, who used to be in the jewelry business at Jackson, Mich., has opened an optical goods store at 417 Adams street.

AN EAST TOLEDO WEDDING.

Yesterday at the Church of the Good Shepherd occurred the marriage of Mr. Hugh Carroll of the Maumee Rolling mill to Miss Mary Bell, one of the East Side's most popular young ladies. Miss Lizzie Bell, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, while Mr. Dan Cotter acted as groomsman. In the evening a very pleasant reception was held at Odd Fellows hall, where the couple's many friends were cordially received. A very elaborate repast was partaken of. The presents were both numerous and beautiful. Mr. and Mrs. Carroll will be at home at No. 461 Third street after Monday, Oct. 5.

MONROE STREET'S NEW PASTOR.

The Vryan Press of yesterday has the following relative to Rev. G. H. Priddy, who was located at the Monroe street M. E. church at the recent session of the Central Ohio Conference:

The action of the Methodist conference for the central Ohio district in removing Rev. G. H. Priddy from Bryan was quite a surprise to the church here. It was resting easy under the supposition that he would be retained for at least another term. During their residence in Bryan, Rev. Priddy and family have made many friends, and the great prosperity of the Methodist church in that time has been largely due to their untiring devotion to its cause. It is not more than fair to say that a similar period of progress and prosperity has rarely if ever been experienced by the local organization. We will all feel the loss of so noble a man and so estimable a family from our town. In their new field of work in Toledo, their friends in Bryan join in wishing Rev. Priddy and family abundant success.

A BRIDEGROOM BURGLARIZED.

As announced in last night's Bee, the wedding of Frank I. Consaul and Cora J. Thorpe occurred in the Second Baptist church last evening. Rev. L. D. Robinson pronounced the words that made the twain one in the presence of a large company of the relatives and friends of the contracting couple. Later, while a reception was being tendered the immediate relatives at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Thorpe, the bride's parents, on Front street, the bridegroom was notified that his new and uncompleted residence, corner of French street and Euclid avenue, was being burglarized. Hastening to the rescue of his home, accompanied by his bride and their friends, the news was confirmed. A desperate number of young gentlemen, Mr. Consaul's associates in City Engineer Wickenden's office, had made forcible entry and were in possession. They had brought with them a handsome full set of dining room furniture. Other conspirators had also made themselves accessory to the burglary, by entering and depositing wedding gifts of silver and other beautiful and useful things. From the impromptu speeches that followed it is evident Mr. and Mrs. Consaul enter upon their new life under happy auspices, and with the best wishes of all their friends, wishes in which the Bee heartily joins.

FIRST WARD CLUB.

Considerable Business Transacted by It Last Night.

The First ward Democratic club met last night at the corner of Huron and Magnolia streets, and transacted much important business.

The attendance was large taking the poor place of holding meetings into consideration, and the boys were all enthusiastic and ready to do any duties which may be assigned to them.

The question of building a new wigwam was brought up, and President Puck stated that he had been studying over the committee he had been instructed to appoint, and had settled on the following gentlemen: P. H. Dowling, M. M. Eppstein, Homer Hood, William Beatty and F. E. Witker.

This committee will take steps immediately for the raising of sufficient funds to erect the wigwam. Several sites have been offered, one at the corner of Mulberry and Superior, and the others on Erie street, between Bush and Stickney.

The following were elected members of the club:

W. T. Donovan, F. W. Haigh, H. L. DeShetler, J. Gahan, A. Roberts, R. H. Timpany, Geo. Witker, C. Scheets, D. W. Barry, J. Maurer, Henry Schwartz, J. J. Hamilton, J. Stager, John Reider, Jas. Reider, Peter Wernert, Jos. Wernert, J. J. Curran, F. Happensberger.

WAS A STRING TO IT.

Republican Attempt to Destroy the Ballot Law.

If Not Met by a Storm of Protest the Irregular Petition Will Be Amended and the Case Pushed.

Columbus, Oct. 2.—The republicans have taken the first step, but hesitate to make an additional move in the efforts to have the Australian ballot law declared unconstitutional.

There is accumulating evidence to show that the petition in mandamus sent to the clerk of the supreme court is part of a conspiracy formed by the republican managers to defeat the beneficent purposes of the secret ballot law, which would guarantee a full, free and honest expression of the people of the state at the polls in November.

This petition was evidently filed with a view of feeling the public pulse on the matter and this accounts for the singular omission in the document.

Besides the failure to enclose the customary $5 it was discovered this morning that Judge Thompson, the republican politician who instituted the proceedings, failed to include in his petition a recipe under which the clerk could cite Attorney General Watson to appear in court and answer the mandamus proceedings.

There are other informalities in the petition, it is learned, although the clerk of the supreme court declined to permit any inspection of the document because of the incomplete form in which he found it.

This is evidently a part of the scheme to size up the public feeling on the subject. Under the circumstances the clerk is justified in withholding the petition from the public, but the omissions are undoubtedly a part of the well considered plan of the republicans to destroy, if possible, the secret ballot provided by the democratic legislature.

If the condition of affairs is considered safe the omissions in the petition will be supplied, and the case will test the constitutionality of the law pushed with all possible dispatch.

If, however, it appears that the people will revolt against such an outrageous proceeding, then they may conclude to drop the matter and endeavor to make it appear that the party was not responsible for the attack on the law.

There is no question that the republicans fear the effect of the secret ballot and will do all possible to destroy the law. The last republican legislature refused to provide for a secret ballot, but the democrats, when receiving the majority, passed the act making such provision, and now the republicans, to prevent an honest election, are moving heaven and earth to destroy this wholesome measure.

ENTERED THEIR PLEAS

In Court This Morning in Answer to Indictments by the Grand Jury.

This morning Sheriff Stuart and deputies led 24 prisoners into Judge Harmon's court, who were indicted by the grand jury of various and sundry crimes. They were, as a rule, an ignorant looking class, with the exception of one or two. There were also 11 out on bail, who were arraigned:

John Reynolds, grand larceny—not guilty.

Thomas Murphy, sodomy, three counts—not guilty.

George Vieths, grand larceny—not guilty.

John Ford, colored, rape—not guilty.

John Murphy and James McCarthy, grand larceny—guilty.

William Davis, grand larceny—guilty.

John Finger, cutting with intent to wound and intent to kill—not guilty.

E. M. Fitzmeyer, embezzlement—not guilty.

Frank and Henry Aimes, burglary and larceny—Frank, not guilty and was released on $500 bail; Henry, guilty.

John Coakly and George De Bolier, burglary and larceny—Coakly, guilty; De Bolier, not guilty; George W. Trost appointed to defend.

John Jones, grand larceny—guilty.

Christian Budtz, embezzlement—not guilty.

Michael Howard, rape—not guilty.

Assignment will be made on Monday morning.

AUCTION on the market to-morrow.

IN TRADING CIRCLES

Both at Our Home and Abroad.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Current for Produce and Other Articles.

London wheat market rather easier; corn slow. Liverpool wheat 1-2 pence lower since Tuesday, except California, which is 1 penny lower; corn quiet.

Liverpool received in past six days 895,000 bushels wheat, of which 408,300 was American; and 320,000 bushels of corn.

The receipts of wheat at seven principal western points to-day are 1,063,680 bu, compared with 485,828 bu on the same day last year.

The receipts of wheat to-day at seven principal western points are 577,852 bus. in excess of the corresponding Friday in 1890.

The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were very large in grain and flour. Wheat 525,505 bus. and flour to make an aggregate of over 800,000 bus. of wheat. The exports of corn were 338,431 bus.

English markets as reported herein are dull and lower, but later cables quote an advance of 1 penny in Liverpool.

The Northwest.

Our extract herein from the Market Record gives a sensible view of wheat crop conditions in the northwest, and it is worth reading because we think the editor of that paper is a conservative and sober-minded gentleman. The "prairie fire" account looks a little stilted, and it will be well to wait for the facts. But all these elements along with the weekly "hold your wheat" letters have their impression on the public mind, and will undoubtedly induce farmers to hold when the time comes that their money necessities permit it. The theory of American control of the world's markets has taken fast hold of the public sense, right or wrong, and millions of farmers and dealers will be influenced by it.

Foreign and Home-Grown Wheat and Rye.

The weather in England and on the continent for two or three weeks has effected considerable change in the conditions of their wheat and rye, and if it should continue, such grain will soon be in a condition to grind. This, for a time will curtail the demand for importations and is worth thinking of. They do not want all of our surplus at once.

Is Wheat Exportable?

If winter wheat quotation—that which represents No. 2 western winter wheat—is restored to the position it has held relatively to California and spring wheat for years, of say 2c bus. less, then we say No. 2 winter wheat is exportable at Chicago and Toledo, at a good profit. But by what we believe to be the machinations of dealers, this winter wheat is now quoted 10c below California and 14c below spring, and on any such basis it is not exportable. But every wet spell some man is reported as re-selling a cargo of wheat at a loss,, and the next day the exportations in wheat and flour aggregate 800,000 bus.

Seed Market.

To shippers of clover seed.—The inspector of seed as well as receivers have noticed the very poor custom of late on the part of country shippers of making shipments of clover seed to this market in inferior bags.

Shipments must in all cases be in new bags and bags that are strong and durable. Stark bags are, of course, a superior bag and the price in this market at present is 20 cents for new bags. The following named bags are also first class and should be used by shippers in all cases whenever possible: Amoskeag, Ozark, American, Lewiston and Harmony are all bags which can be marketed and are worth 16 1-2 cents. Any inferior bags than the above stated kinds will be marked by the inspector at their value or else will be returned to the shipper. Old bags will be classed as old bags, and value of same determined by the inspector.

Many of the interior shippers have the habit of marking their bags badly by brush which destroys value, as well as making the shipment look very badly. Marked bags will be classed as second-hand bags unless marks are made small with stencil or brush on end of bags. It is very unsafe to ship seed in tied bags, always sew the bag with good strong thread.

Flax Seed—At Chicago yesterday No. 1 sold at 92 1-2@93c, a few cars early at 93 1-2 and finally at 92c, with later the closing bid price, except a few favored locations might bring a shade more. Flax in bags was at a discount, and several cars sold at 91c.

MARKETS TO-DAY.

Yesterday p. m. the markets on both sides of the ocean closed up dull and lower, and the trade was generally ready for a break to-day, but man proposes and wheat disposes. This morning the somber look disappeared and all our markets were higher for wheat and corn. The news that we have written about above with a tremendous exports started the shorts, and they strated prices upward until an advance of 1 1-2c on wheat had been gained, and 1 3-4c on corn in New York market. In the last hour prices were easier for a little while, but closed in New York 1 7-8c higher on December, and 1 3-4c on October. October corn 3-8c, and November 1 1-2c higher. October oats 3-8c higher.

In Chicago December closed 2 1-8c up. October corn 1 3-8c up. October oats unchanged.

In Toledo business has been more active in wheat, and all things considered, there is no cause for complaint.

Prices opened higher and continued to advance and closed at the best prices of the day. On the call cash wheat sold at 98c and December $1.01. After the call October sold at 98 1-4c and at close 99 1-4c was the price. December sold at $1.01 and closed at $1.02 1-4, a gain of 1 3-4c. January sold at $1.03 3-8. March $1.08 1-4@1.08 1-2, and closed at $1.08 1-2 a gain of 1 3-4c.

Cash wheat was active and the sales large. No. 2 soft opened at 98c and closed at 99 1-4c; No. 3 soft at 94 1-2 to 95c; No. 4 soft at 90c; rejected No. 1 at 86c; No. 2 hard at 95c; No. 3 hard at 90c.

Corn—No. 2 at 56 bid. Oats—No. 2 at 30c. Rye was 1c dearer; No. 2 at 57c; No. 3 at 54c. Clover seed was about steady, but dull; prime for cash, at $4.43; October at $4.42 1-2; December at $4.52 1-2; No. 2 at $4.20.

Markets by Telegraph.

London, Oct. 2—1:00 p. m.—Wheat cargoes off the coast at opening rather easier; Maize nothing offering. Wheat cargoes on passage and for shipment rather easier; Maize quiet and steady.

Mark Lane.—Wheat at opening quiet and steady; Maize slow. English country markets steady. French quiet.

Liverpool, Oct. 2—1 p. m.—Wheat market quiet, demand poor, holders offer moderately. American mixed corn quiet, demand poor. Red western spring wheat No. 2 to No. 1, 8s 10 1-2@8s 11d; winter wheat No. 2 to No. 1, 8s 6 1-2@8s 7d. Wheat and corn off coast demand poor. Receipts of wheat past six days 537,000 centals, of which 245,000 centals was American. Receipts of corn past six days, 196,000 centals.

COVERING THE STATE.

Gov. Campbell at St. Clairville To-Day.

Ten Thousand Farmers Have Gathered to Hear Him Discuss the Tariff.

St. Clairville, O., Oct. 2.—Gov. Campbell was up bright and early this morning and took the train at Youngstown for Bridgeport.

At the latter place he was met by a committee and the party took carriages and were driven across the country to this place.

He speaks at the fair grounds and there are now over 10,000 people on the grounds awaiting his arrival.

To-night he speaks at Bellaire, and from there goes to Zanesville, in order to be able to reach Coshocton at an early hour in the morning.

WILL HAVE WATER WORKS.

North Baltimore Will Try the Gangwell Plan.

Judge Harrison, a prominent citizen of the busy city of North Baltimore, is in the city to-day.

"Our town is growing and improving much more rapidly than people imagine," said he to a Bee. "We will soon have a system of waterworks. The contract has been let to W. S. Coon & Son, of Upper Sandusky, and the North Baltimore Construction company will build the system."

Where will we get our water? From wells. The gang well plan has been adoted, and a couple of wells have already been drilled as a test, and the result is satisfactory. The new improvement will cost $60,000, and will be completed soon as possible."

"How about politics?"

"Everything looks favorable for democracy. Capt. Bell addressed a large meeting there the other night, and there is much enthusiasm. Wood county democrats will elect a portion of their county ticket this year."

SENSATIONAL REPORT

Relative to Connecting City Gas Line With the Northwestern—President Parsons Investigating.

There have been rumors in the air for a day or two relative to the connection of city gas mains with Northwestern lines. The report seems to be without any good foundation, and is likely the emanation of an over-heated imagination, it is said, of a discharged employe.

President Parsons was asked by a Bee this morning if he had heard of the rumor. He said:

"A party came to me and said an employe of the city gas department had informed him that such connections had been made. I don't believe a word of it, but just to satisfy a few anxious people I have caused an investigation to be made."

It is alleged that some crookedness does exist in several institutions that use both city and Northwestern gas.

DEMOCRATIC MEETING.

Captain George W. Bell at Air Line Junction To-night.

Capt. Geo. W. Bell and Hon. John W. Canary will address a meeting of democrats to-night at Air Line Junction.

Capt. Bell is one of the most eloquent and convincing speakers in Ohio this campaign, and every democrat in Toledo who can should go and hear him. Electric cars via Western avenue will take you there.

Turn out and give Capt. Bell and Mr. Canary a rousing meeting.

Toledo real estate is on the upward grade these days. Activity prevails in nearly every locality.

The defective sidewalk at the corner of Shaw avenue and Colfax street caused Mrs. Jacob Miller, of East Toledo, to fall, receiving severe injuries.

The John Witt liquor case was set for this afternoon in police court, but the jury has not yet been empannelled in the Eckenrode case, and it will be continued.

Miss Marian Isabel Gibson of Paris, France, will address a Y meeting at the Ashland avenue church to-night. Besides the talk, an interesting program will be observed.

This evening the celebration of "Rosh Hashonah," the Jewish new year, will begin, and interesting services are to be held at the Shomer Emunim temple on Tenth street, conducted by Rabbi Brown.

The jury in the Eckenrode case was empanelled at noon to-day. The defendant's attorney filed a motion challenging the array. The prosecuting attorney filed a motion to quash the challenge. Judge Sala will decide the motions this afternoon.

Rev. L. C. Webster, formerly pastor of the Broadway M. E. church, will occupy the pulpit at his new appointment at Carey next Sunday. He was presiding elder in that district prior to coming to Toledo, and is therefore not a stranger.

Has Quay indeed dropped out? Why this loud silence?

Democratic meeting at Air Line Junction to-night. Give Capt. Bell a hearty reception.

For a time at least republican papers will cease abusing Harper's Weekly as it has declared for Fassett, the republican candidate for governor.

Fred Douglass made $40,000 a year out of the office of Recorder of Deeds in the District of Columbia. He can afford to be obstreperous about his ministerial duties in Hayti.

By some strange inadvertence, the high-tax writers and orators forget to mention the bounty for sugar growers when they tell their audiences how the McKinley bill cheapened that commodity to the consumer by removing the tariff.

France, true to tradition, will erect monuments and sounds peans for the exiled and dead Boulanger. It's a way the French people have. He mimicked Napoleon in his last will and testament, and his avowal of love for the country and the government he sought to betray and ruin may yet be inscribed on a monument to his memory.

Can any good citizen inform the public why in this age of freedom a Know Nothing organization should exist to proscribe any particular class? Such an un-American society is in pronounced existence in Toledo and one of the most active workers is a candidate for office on the republican ticket. Voters will do well to investigate this matter and rebuke such intolerance at the polls.

The Napoleon Northwest, always one of the neatest and best of our exchanges, has enlarged to a seven column quarto, put in a new press and steam plant, and otherwise improved itself. Brother Orwig is an able editor and a splendid printer, and richly deserves the success which has been liberally vouchsafed to him in the newspaper business.

As might have been expected, the agents of the American company in the Bering sea forgot to count the seal skins and the British watchers affirm that they have already taken twice the number allowed. This showing of bad faith, the London Times declares will greatly cloud the prospect for amicable settlement. It will be remembered the State Department has a friend in the American company and the deserved censure will doubtless come in the form of a wholesale denial of probable facts.

All the New York democratic organizations have united on Flower and will give him hearty support at the election. The New York campaign has more direct bearing upon the national contest next year than that of any other state, as it is the one great pivotal point for which both parties will work. New York must cast its electoral vote for the democratic candidate for president and the democrats of the Empire State will not fritter away their strength by quarreling on the skirmish line.

When Garfield asked, in 1880, "What are the departments doing?" he struck the keynote of a republican campaign, and no law or regard for common honor has hushed its vibrations. The "private and confidential circular" asking "voluntary" contributions to the republican campaign fund is again on its travels. But there comes rumor from Washington of a revolt of the clerks, notably those from Ohio and Pennsylvania. They are even bold enough to quote the following paragraph of the law of '83:

No officer or employe of the United States mentioned in this act shall discharge, or promote, or degrade, or in any manner change the official rank or compensation of any officer or employe, or promise or threaten so to do, for giving or withholding, or neglecting to make any contributions of money or other valuable thing for political purposes.

The suggestion is, however, when it is put to them plainly, "your money or your place," they will succumb and another victory be scored in the civil service reform administration of President Harrison.

The management of the pension department has been one of the chief disgraces of republican rule and even the beginning of the end of malfeasance is not yet in sight, nor will it come until a complete change of administration and methods is inaugurated. It has been considered the green pasture for party payment of debts, and the vet-eran soldier has always been the least of the beneficiaries, although the plun-dering was done wholly in his name. Under the present demoralized condition of the department demands attention. Rumor comes from Washington that President Harrison will ask the resignation of Commissioner Raum, and another dispatch is to the effect that Commissioner Raum will ask the dismissal from office of three high-salaried clerks who have corrupted his son and who are in collusion with him in the "blood money" transactions.

A pretty state of affairs to go on from bad to worse all these months directly under the nose of the Chief Executive who poses for renomination on the strength of his "clean and able administration."

DEMOCRACY ABROAD.

The occasional mutterings of war in Europe are even less significant than the tramp of the army of progress in the victories of peace. The congress of the National Liberal Federation of England, which opened yesterday in Newcastle-on-the-Tyne is simply a startling affair in the heart of the monarchy of Britain. Three thousand delegates from only a portion of the island kingdom; one hundred and twenty orators already on the program, with the Grand Old Man to lead in debate is an event of the decade. The growth of democratic sentiment in England, or as they prefer to call it, "liberalism" is as remarkable as it is rapid. Temperance reform, the labor question, home rule for Ireland, and, incidentally, disestablishment of the church, free education and abolishment of the House of Lords are the topics of the hour.

Already the time is approaching when the only link of the monarchy of George III will be "the royal family," and when good Queen Victoria shall lay down her scepter, that stronghold will be mightily shaken. So say thoughtful observers on both sides of the sea.

The woman's federation, presided over by Mrs. Gladsone, is also in session. English women are better politicians than our own; they join in the house to house canvass for votes, and their influence is an acknowledged factor in a campaign. They are not shrewder, more patriotic or more earnest, but they have franchise rights that American women are not possessed of.

Taking a wider view of the field, Australia is democratic in her government saving and except the appointment of a formal ruler by the Crown. Canada may be subject or independent, as she chooses. France has made law against hereditary succession of lands and estates and is building free school houses. Germany's emperor shows an alarming interest in the cause of the people.

Russia alone of all great powers of the world maintains and strengthens her despotic rule. Posing as a Christian nation she perpetrates cruelties on her own people that put to shame the practices of savage and barbarous nations. Because Russia is feared she is unmolested in her defiant inhumanity, but the countries which are receiving her robbed and exiled people can not remain silent except the exigencies of "the European situation" become too formidable. Even this shameful exhibition of a nation's unrighteous wrath, is a chapter in the liberty lessons for the old world. The indignation aroused and expressed is a hopeful sign.

In these wonderful victories for liberty and humanity, the influence of the republic of the United States is incalculable. It is not the first instance of a child leading the parent. We have a right to a big share in the glory of it all. In the meantime we have something to do to maintain the liberty that is come by costly inheritance.

ATTACKING THE BALLOT LAW.

The republican party in Ohio is afraid of a free ballot. The large republican city vote heretofore cast in some of the cities, notably in Cincinnati, Cleveland and Toledo, has been the result of intimidation, fraud and open purchase. An absolutely secret ballot will prevent fraud and corruption, hence the republican fear of the new law, which was passed by the last democratic legislature. Acting upon the advice of the republican state central committee, and in the interest of Candidate McKinley, a man named Thompson has brought suit to test the constitutionality of the law. The supreme court is expected to declare it unconstitutional, and, in the opinion of the people generally, that partisan court will not hesitate to declare a political opinion for partisan purposes.

The Australian system, in more or less perfect form, is in operation in twenty-eight states. The law was enacted in Ohio, as elsewhere, in response to advanced thought and popular determination to have the American ballot guarded by all the sacredness that freedom and liberty contemplates. Without the free ballot free institutions cannot exist. The time is ripe for reform in this direction, and neither Ohio nor any other state will take a backward step. The court that lays partisan hands on the Ohio reform ballot law will be damned by public opinion, and the political organization that is principal or agent in the overthrow of this law will be pounded out of existence by the voters of Ohio. The people will have no interference with this law. It may be amended and improved by future general assemblies, but its operations must not be nullified or its good purposes destroyed. The republican managers would better pause in their mad career. If they have any political hope whatever, now or in the future, they should let the Australian system, now an Ohio law, severely alone. It is the people's law, and the people will guard and protect it.

FIVE WHYS.

Why isn't Pat Egan brought home from Chile? He has done mischief enough.

Why isn't barnacle Blair dislodged from the pay ship of state? he is repudiated on every side and performs no official labor.

Why isn't Pension Commissioner Raum dismissed from the government employ with, or without trial? he has succeeded in making the Tanner administration comparatively respectable.

Why do not republican party organs of Pennsylvania denounce their dishonest state officials and commend Gov. Pattison in his attempt to administer the law?

Why doesn't Secretary Blaine write something for the McKinley canvass if he is not able to say it? he damned the tariff bill in one brief sentence and has never offered to repair the damage.

A Boston firm, Messrs. Ganz & Mark, are about to issue a trade sheet, non-political and for commercial use only, with market prices now and before the new law went into effect, contrasted. That is, prices to the American consumer of wool and tin and other goods affected. The foreign consumer pays no tariff, the home manufacturer gets a rebate on certain manufactures; it is simply and only the everyday American retail buyer on whom the burden falls, and he is the man who needs enlightening.

Thank You.

The Toledo Bee is now snugly ensconced in its new building, one of the finest in the city of Toledo. We congratulate the proprietors and wish them a happy and prosperous life in their new and beautiful home.—Napoleon Northwest.

THE UNION OF UNIONS.

Toledo W. C. T. U. Ladies are Preparing

To Entertain the State Convention This Month—Interesting Meeting at St. Paul's—What Has Been Done.

The regular monthly meeting of the Union of Unions was held in St. Paul's M. E. church yesterday afternoon, with an unusually large attendance. Great interest was manifested in the report on preparations for the Ohio W. C. T. U. convention, which is held in this city on October 14, 15 and 16.

The reports were mainly received in committee, the finance committee and committee on entertainment holding a session before the regular meeting opened. Mrs. John S. Eck presided, and Mrs. Affie Hitchens acted as secretary. The Union of Unions is a central organization, made up of delegates from the ten Women's Christian Temperance Unions in Lucas county, and the finance committee yesterday received reports from eight of these unions. Ross union was not represented, and the delegates from the new union at Auburndale have not yet been received.

It was desired to raise a fund of not less than $300, and the reports from the eight unions showed over $200 of this sum was already raised or pledged. The First, Central and Woodbridge unions each pledged $50; Willard and Lucy Webb Hayes unions each $30; the East Side, Lincoln and Leavitt unions had raised over $10 each, and were pledged to raise as much more as possible.

The lunches to the delegates are to be served by the unions, and there will be other incidental expenses. As Mrs. C. R. Southland, chairman of the committee on entertainment, reported that 350 delegates had already notified her of their intention to be present, it was decided a further fund must and should be raised. A committee from each union reported the names and residences of ladies who have so far volunteered to entertain 214 visitors. More places are needed.

The committees adjourned to meet at Mrs. Eck's residence next Thursday afternoon.

The regular meeting of the union was held in the auditorium of the church, County President Mrs. Francis J. Sumner presiding. Mrs. C. R. Southland secretary. The devotional exercises were conducted by Mrs. Josephine Marquette. The secretary read the report of the last meeting, and such communications as came before the body for action. A report on badges was received from Mrs. Phebe W. Clark, and all business relating to the reception of the delegates was referred to the reception committee, of which Mrs. Emma Nicholas is chairman.

The Y. W. C. T. U. will assist in receiving and entertaining the delegates, especially such as come representing "Y" associations, and it was decided to establish a postoffice in the church building, in charge of the Toledo Ys. It was also decided to have a Bureau of Information for the strangers, to be in charge of Mrs. Josephine Marlette, and in connection with this there will be a room for the deposit of light luggage.

The next meeting of the Union of Unions will be held the first Thursday in November in the Second Congregational church, East Toledo.

Union and Convention Notes.

The East Side union meets one week from to-day.

The Ys met in the First Congregational church this afternoon.

Maud E. Dutton and Mrs. Phebe W. Clark are the press committee for the convention.

Woodbridge union has changed its meeting night from Tuesday to Monday. Its next meeting will be on the 12th.

The lunches will be served by the unions, each furnishing volunteers for the work each day. Lunch tickets will be issued to the delegates.

The executive committee of the state convention will be in session here on the 13th inst. The convention meetings will be held in the First Congregational church. The ladies of the Y association will act as pages and ushers at the day session.

The new union at Auburndale, organized on the 29th ult., has elected officers, paid state dues, elected delegates to the state convention, and starts in under the most favorable auspices. Its officers are: President, Mrs. Laura Fralick; secretary, Mrs. Mary Blaine; treasurer, Mrs. Mary Bishop.

THE AWARD OF THE GODS.

A Fable With Modern and Present Application.

The New York and Ohio elections being over, and being filled with admiration at the boldness and dexterity with which the republicans had manufactured campaign lies, and used them in defense of a falling cause, Jupiter called a meeting on the highest crag of Olympus, and announced that he would produce the champion campaign lie.

Of course, there was a great attendance. All the gods and goddesses were present, anxious to see the American politicians, of whom they had heard so much. Mercury, who is said to have been something of a liar himself, even in his earliest youth, was there, but took a back seat, well knowing that he would soon meet men, mere mortals though they were, who could give him odds at his own specialty and lick him out of sight. Mars, looking very much like a German Uhlan, made himself comfortable on a large bowlder and conversed with Vulcan about the latest improvements the mortals had made in smokeless powder, while Juno, Venus and the other ladies of Jupiter's court, attired in the latest triumphs of Olympian dressmaking, graced the occasion with their presence. Jupiter himself looked very fine with a few thunderbolts lying handy at his right hand, and a large bowl of nectar still handier at his left hand.

Soon the mortals arrived in a great throng, and a grand and gorgeous sight it was to see. There were republican orators, editors, practical workers and others of whom we hear every day. Each had with him his pet lie, and was confident that he would win the prize. The competition began immediately, and one by one they trotted out their wares, bringing to view many a familiar, old face.

The favorite lie about the manufacture of tin-plate in America was exhibited with great gusto. Then came the lie that the tariff keeps up the wages of workmen, all the bloody shirt lies, the lie that the farmer is interested in maintaining the tariff, the various wool lies and a whole host of other lies which had done service, hard and often.

The competition was almost over. Jupiter sat open-mouthed in his admiration of the ingenuity of mortals. He had never told such lies himself, even when he was courting those fair Greek maids, Danae and Semele, when love made all things legitimate, but so many of them had such great and distinguishing merits that he felt unable to come to a decision, and feared that he would not rightly award the prize. As he sat perplexed, a little man with ink stains on his hands and a pen stuck over his ear, evidently an editor, came out of the throng, approached and said:

"O, mightiest Olympian Jove, Ruler of the Lightning and Hurler of the Thunderbolt, I am the man who started the lie that the Cobden club had sent over a million dollars to carry Ohio for the democrats."

As he finished, all the gods and goddesses, headed by Jupiter himself, rushed forward, seized the prize and placed it in the hands of the editor.—Courier-Journal.

THE WOOL-GROWER KNOWS IT ALL.

The wool producers knows that he was promised an increase of price for his product in the passage of the McKinley bill. He knows that the wool buyers took advantage of him a year ago and scared him into selling. He knows too that the price of wool this season is less than a year ago. He also knows that woolen goods are higher, and will be kept higher, unless machinery and competition reduce the price.—Ashland Press.

OHIO FARMER'S OPPORTUNITY.

We find a number of our leading Licking county farmers are convinced of the ability and power of the farmers of the state to completely control the result in Ohio this fall and defeat McKinley by voting for Gov. Campbell. There never was such an opportunity for the farmers of Ohio to help themselves, and to help the farmers of every other state as there is this fall.—New Era Advocate.

ON THE OTHER HAND.

Hon. Wm. McKinley, jr., will not carry his own county. He will not carry his congressional district. On the other hand, Gov. Campbell will carry his own county. He will carry his congressional district, and he will carry the county in which he is living temporarily by reason of being governor of Ohio.—Wayne County Democrat.

LOCAL LABOR NEWS.

The street car men will hold an important meeting to-morrow evening, and every member is expected to be on hand.

The Iron Moulders' Union held a brief business session at Turley's hall. No business of special importance was transacted.

The Committee of Clerks who have been crusading in the interest of the early closing movement yesterday and the day before was only partially successful.

Through some misunderstanding the Machinests and the K. of L. will give their dances during the meeting of the General Assembly on the same evening. Both will be held largely in honor of Mr. Powderly, and unless one or the other changes dates it is likely both will be financial failures.

The Plumbers met at Carpenters'hall last evening. They report business brisk and no troubles pending or anticipated.

The Lake Seamen held an interesting meeting last night, and discussed the recent troubles.

The report of the free employment office for the week ending October 1 is as follows:

	Males.	Females.
Situations wanted	71	27
Help wanted	37	23
Situations procured	50	30

The demand for day laborers is very great just now. Female help is still scarce and the demand increasing.

QUEER FREAKS OF FORTUNE

A Party of Toledoans Discuss Games of Chance.

Razzledazzle Not In It With Checkers—The Colonel's Red Queen—How He Made Seven on a Lone Pedro.

"Coming home from Chicago they happened to meet.
They were very old friends on the cars—
And as neither the other at poker could beat,
They played euchre, five points, for cigars.

Almost every day, when matters are dull on change or the sessions are over, you can find a coterie of "the boys" in F. J. Southard's office, either playing checkers or discussing in a general way the freaks of fortune as experienced in games of chance.

Banker Mitchell of Maumee, the champion checker player, by the way, of northwestern Ohio, is generally on hand, and after beating the board at a checker tournament, he joins the boys in the rounds of stories which generally winds up these social gatherings. There were half dozen of old timers on hand a day or two ago. The relative merits of checkers are compared with razzle-dazzle was the subject under discussion.

"There is this about razzle-dazzle that makes it more exciting," said one of the speakers. "It is all chance and very little science. With the two high cards and the deuce you are good for 14. Have you ever remarked how the cards run sometimes? I've played four and five hours at a stretch, and I've seen evenings when the bids averaged not over eight, and again you couldn't touch it for less than 13. Yes, sir, I've seen men win who bid 13 on a queen and deuce, and again I've seen men go it alone on the ace, king, queen, jack and 10-spot and get beaten."

The general opinion, however, was in favor of checkers, and it was decided by a vote of 5 to 1 that checkers beat every regulation game except—whist.

"Talking of whist," remarked another, "reminds me of a game I once played. It was the best three out of five and we stood two and two. On the next hand our opponents made a clean run of six, and of course we did think we were not in it. The following hand my partner and myself ran straight through the deck, taking every blamed trick and winning the game."

"I saw a somewhat similar game," said a third gentleman, "but it was more exciting still. It was on a bet for the supper on 51 games to be played for at intervals during a month. We will call the respective sides A and B. A started out the first night with five games to his credit. The next night followed it up with a straight run of eight. The third night they were tied, and so it ran with at least six or eight ties, until they stood 25 and 25. The last game was witnessed by fully a score of people, and it was the most interesting game I ever witnessed. A made five the first hand. B made four, and came back with one, making it a tie; then each made one, and A finally won by a single spot."

"I had an interesting game of single pedro once with George Cole, formerly of the Bee, now in Texas," another speaker remarked. "It was when the Press clubs rooms were in the Law building. I chanced to drop in there one evening and George challenged me to a game of pedro. We played several and divided honors about evenly. The last, however, was a very remarkable game. Cole was 19 and I 3 in the ring. It was my bid and I gave six on the lone pedro and got it. George drew six cards and I five. He threw down his hand, having not got a single trump in the 12 cards, and I did not draw one outside of my pedro, so I made high, low and pedro. The next time George went back to 13, and I beat him out with a score of 8 to 21 in my favor."

The stanza with which this article opens was quoted by a prominent member of the Ohio Yacht club, who was present to illustrate a story he told anent a little game of draw poker.

"We were going over to Monroe on a fishing trip on the Enright," he began, "and we had several games of euchre. Finally I turned up four big kings and cursed the luck that I wasn't playing poker. Oh, I know it is an old trick (this in response to a series of groans), but let me tell you my story. A red queen was turned up for trump. I remarked quietly that I had a fair poker hand and Tom —— said he too had a good hand.

"'Let's us play it out,' I said.

"He considered a moment, as if in doubt, but finally agreed if I'd give him the turned-up queen. I saw in a moment that he had either a full or four queens, so I went in. I started in on $2, he came back with $5, and so it went until we had close on to $150 in the pot. Finally I reached for the pile and threw down my hand.

"'Four kings,' I said.

"'Four aces,' said he.

"He had actually rung in a cold deck and the red queen was nothing more nor less than a blind."

THE SAME OLD STORY.

The cut in wages in the Fall River mills (protected), which was ordered to go into effect Oct. 5, has been suspended "for the present"—which means until after election. It is fortunate for the poor operatives that the mill bosses are in a panic over the prospects of Gov. Russell's re-election.—New York World.

ONE OF THE QUESTIONS.

So Charlie Foster has concluded to be present in Ohio just before and during the election. The question is, will Gov. Foraker give more or give less attention to his law business because of the active presence in Buckeyedom of the Young-Man-Proud-of-his-Tail?—Cincinnati Post.

NOT A REPUBLICAN SUCCESS.

The Courier says that the Mills meeting "was a success." Looking at it from a republican standpoint the dear old thing is correct. It was not a republican success, but as a clear, honest, comprehensive exposition of the tariff, it was the most masterly effort ever made in this city.—Zanesville Signal.

A HAPPY ANSWER.

Gov. Campbell was very happy in answering Mr. Horr's claim that the increase of duty on certain farming implements had made them cheaper. The governor put the simple question: "Well, now, how high would the tariff have to be for you to get your tools free?"—Wheeling Register.

LOTS OF BUSINESS

Before Several of the Councilmanic Committee.

Big Kick on the Price of Lumber Used in Sewers—Some Street Improvements—Proposition to Flush Swan Creek.

Last night was a lively one at the council chamber, nearly all the members being present at the various committee meetings, and a big lobby also being on hand. Considerable business was handled by the committees, and there were several lengthy debates. Committees on streets, sewers and railroads were the principal ones.

The street committee approved resolutions to open Butler street, 60 feet wide, from Navarre avenue to Earl street; to pave Monroe street with Asphalt, from Bancroft street to the westerly city line; to grade St. John street from Stickney avenue to C street; and granting permission to property owners on Melrose avenue to put in stone curb at their own expense.

A resolution to plank Brown avenue from Dorr street to the south line of lot 80, Brown's addition, was first approved, but afterwards, on motion of Mr. Albrecht, was reconsidered and tabled.

The ordinance to establish the grade of Ravine alley was amended and re-approved.

A number of contracts for small improvements were let as follows:

To pave Dove Lane with old Medina stone, Wernert and Son, $1,903.70; to pave Fifteenth street with cedar block from Madison to Adams, Thomas McKinney, $2,278.90; grading sidewalk beds on Wayne street, C. W. Ryan, $208; grade alley between Hamilton and Tecumseh streets from Division to Lenk, M. & O. Sullivan, $209.40; to turnpike Locust street from Franklin avenue to Comstock avenue, M. & O. Sullivan, $186.62; to turnpike Comstock avenue from Franklin to Locust, M. M. Goulden, $44.37; to turnpike Central avenue from Cherry to Franklin, M. M. Goulden, $62.09.

Bids were before the committee for grading Brown Road from Oak street to Miami, but as there was some objection to the grade established a sub-committee consisting of Messrs. Albrecht, Morganthaler and Hassenzahl were appointed to look the ground over. The grading of Tracy street was referred to the same committee.

The committee on labor and commerce held a brief session and authorized the harbor master to rent the slip at the foot of Elm street for $75 per year.

Committees on police and claims audited several schedules of bills, but transacted no other business.

* * * * *

Before the health committee Mr. Everett brought up the matter of stagnant water in Swan creek, which is very offensive and breeds much disease. He proposed that the creek be washed out by turning the canal into it, and the committee directed the solicitor to prepare the proper papers to present to the legislature asking for authority to do this work.

* * * * *

The longest session was held by the sewer committee who had to consider objections from several committees of property owners.

A committee was on hand to object to the confirmation of the assessment for the sewer in the elevator between Germania street and Indiana avenue. They objected to the price of the lumber which had been left in the sewer, for which the contractor charged $40 per thousand. They also thought that too much lumber had been left in the sewer, and did not want to pay for 27,000 feet of it in a brick sewer. After some discussion Messrs. Schmuhl, Doner and Gill were appointed a sub-committee to investigate the sewer.

This matter of $40 per thousand for lumber used in sewers has been before the committee several times and lately objections have been made from all parts of the city. The property owners claim that they should not be obliged to pay such a price for pine lumber which sells at $18 and $20. They also claim that the contractors find it very profitable to leave in the sewer more lumber than necessary.

A committee of property owners, assisted by Attorney Curtis, were also on hand to object to the confirmation of the assessment for sewer 353 in the alley between west Broadway and Orchard street. They claim that the bottom of the sewer is irregular and that the water does not flow freely through it. This was discussed at some length but no action taken.

Resolutions were approved for sewers in Ravine alley and in Monroe street, from Detroit avenue to Bancroft street.

An ordinance was approved for a sewer in Shaw avenue and the alley between Lincoln street and Oakwood avenue.

Resolutions were approved for several sewers to drain the section between Junction avenue and Brown avenue, the sewers to be located in Germania street, Missouri street, Nebraska avenue, Vance street and Forrer street.

Permission was given to the property owners to construct, at their own expense a sewer in the alley between Fulton and Putam streets.

When the matter of awarding contracts came up, Mr. Schmuhl wanted to reject all bids for the reason that the price of lumber was too high. The bids for a sewer in Wisconsin street were rejected, but afterwards reconsidered and the contract awarded to F. E. Cole for $4,417.35.

Other contracts were awarded as follows: Sewer 383 in alley between Nebraska avenue and Tecumseh street, Wm. McMahon, $5,388.54; No. 387 in Indiana avenue, from Brown avenue to Junction avenue, F. E. Cole, $4,834.84; No. 386, in Batavia street, John Degnan, $1,077.15; No. 384, in alley between Vance and Forrer streets, from Irving street to Hawley streets, Wm. McMahon, $2,480.38.

* * *

The railroad committee approved a resolution requesting the railroad commissioner to require the W. & L. E. R. R. Co. to maintain a safety gate at the Summit avenue crossing.

An ordinance was approved granting to the Robison company the right to make their road double track on Lawrence avenue from Bancroft street to Bartlett street.

The resolution requiring the two street railway companies to use their Washington street lines as double track was laid on the table after some discussion.

The committee on annexation held a meeting after many efforts and decided upon a plan to take in Auburndale. West Toledo and considerable property out towards the asylum and up to the fair grounds. Their plan was referred to the city solicitor to prepare the necessary legislation.

No Mistake was Made.

The democracy of this (33d) senatorial district at Ottawa last Thursday made no mistake when they placed in nomination Hon. John Ryan, of Lucas, and Hon. J. W. Canary, of Wood, for state senators. Mr. Ryan has represented the district for two years past and made a creditable record, while Mr. Canary is one of the most popular men in Wood county, whose untiring energy and industry has placed him at the head of his profession.—Wauseon Expositor.

'Twas Something of a Job.

The Toledo Bee is now in its new office. Saturday evening the work of moving began and Monday the paper was issued from the new building. This was something of a job, one press weighing 40,000 pounds and composed of 7,000 pieces being taken apart and put together.—Van Wert Bulletin.

Not a Bit Backward.

THE WAR OF WATCHES.

Toledo Jewelers Cut Prices to Catch the Lake Shore Employes and Make Bad Feeling.

Toledo jewelers are at sixes and sevens just at present and all over the prospective sale of watches to the employes of the Lake Shore railroad. Recently a time service inspector was appointed in Toledo, and certain makes and grades of watches were passed upon as those to be used by the men. Immediately on this announcement being made, one of the jewelers cut the price to $37 on this class of watches and sent circulars to that effect to the Lake Shore employes. The other jewelers, hearing of the fact, cut still lower and the watches that cost them $35 are being sold for little or nothing above the cost, when they should bring about $42. It was the idea of some of the jewelers to put the price up to $50, but the cat jumped the other way.

The jewelers, some of them, are a little put out at the cut, as the watches would have to be sold and still nothing would be made on them. The same thing was done on plated knives recently, and there is no money handling them in this city at present. These cuttings have made a breach in the Toledo Jewelers' club and some members "do not speak as we pass by."

Then, too, the Lake Shore, for some reason or other, has, it is said, ordered that Elgin watches shall not be used. The employes who have Elgin watches do not want to purchase others and have appointed a committee to confer with the officials regarding the matter.

WHO FOR BISHOP?

German Priests Issue an Important Letter

Presumably to Offset the One Issued a Few Weeks Ago—The Letter Translated.

Who shall be successor to the late Rt. Rev. Bishop Gilmour seems to be the all-absorbing question among certain sections of the Catholic clergy. A few weeks ago a letter was circulated favoring, it was presumed from its tenor, Rev. Dr. Maher, of Akron. Now comes a counter circular issued in the interest of some German priest, which, when translated, reads as follows:

Reverend and Very Esteemed Brother:—Rest assured that the selections of candidates for the vacant episcopal see of Cleveland, made on the 12th of May of this year, according to the direction of the council of Baltimore, is an excellent one in every respect. We beg you not to allow yourself to be influenced for a private action which could easily be injurious, because the effect of a divided vote is well known to everybody. Nevertheless, if you wish to make a selection send the same to either the Rev. Father Westerholt or to the Rev. Reichlin. We beg you to reconsider the selection, which possibly you have already made, and, if necessary, revise the same and send it to the above named gentlemen. Your choice will go to the holy see. Write you choice of three names, viz., for dignissimus, dignior and dignus on a paper 4x6 inches, which paper shall be dated and signed by you. For further information please ask one of the undersigned. We are sure it would be best, with name and date of the vote, simply to write on the formula the following words: "We approve the recommendation of the candidates for the vacant Episcopal see of Cleveland, O., made by the majority of the consulters and irremovable rectors. We beg that you act quickly. Your note and letters will be entirely confidential; upon this you may rely. Yours truly in the Lord. F. Westerholt, N. A. Moes, C. Reichlin, S. Bauer."

P. S.—The Rev. Putz is absent, and, being in haste, we could not reach the Rev. Hoeffel.

If you have sent names to Father Maloney withdraw them and notify us of the withdrawal. If you wish to vote revise and send to us. Approve the list chosen by the consultors, which list we have not revealed and do not now reveal, as we are bound to keep our action secret. Trusting the consultors, indorse the choice made by them. If you vote it would be better to vote for the one only. Send to Father Westerholt or to Father Reichlin.

The natural inference is that candidates named by the council at Cleveland were acceptable to the German members of the council.

W. H. LOVEKIN.

W. H. Lovekin, who fills the position of chief clerk and secretary to General Superintendent T. M. Beelar, of the Toledo & Ohio Central system, although a young man, has had wide experience in railroad affairs. He learned telegraphy with the Pennsylvania road at Delphos, which place was his home. His subsequent career can be summed up as follows: First, agent at Holgate for the old narrow gauge Clover Leaf; afterwards chief clerk to the superintendent at Bluffton, then assistant dispatcher at Delphos; assistant dispatcher on the Chicago & Northwestern; private secretary to the general superintendent of the S. C. & P., and the F. E. & M. V.; with the Nickle Plate at Fort Wayne; secretary to the general superintendent of the B. & O. telegraph at Chicago; chief clerk to chief engineer of the C. H. & D. at Cincinnati, then for the past four years in his present position. Mr. Lovekin is a valuable man and counts his friends by scores.

NORTHWESTERN OHIO POINTERS

The alliance party ticket will not receive many votes in northwestern Ohio.

Henry county will roll up a democratic majority of not far from 1,000 this year.

Senator Ryan and Hon. John W. Canary visited two fairs yesterday, one at Ottawa, the other at Bowling Green.

It is predicted by those who ought to know, that Dr. Rorick will not get out of Fulton county with over 500 majority.

Capt. Bell and John W. Canary will speak at Wauseon to-morrow night. Democrats there are preparing for a rousing meeting.

J. S. Holmes, democratic candidate for treasurer of Wood county, is making an energetic canvass. He informed a Bee recently that he did not consider his candidacy hopeless.

The meeting at Ada next Thursday will be more largely attended than any similar event that ever occurred in northwestern Ohio. Ada will be taxed to its utmost capacity to entertain its visitors that day. Harlan N. Stewart, from present indications, will have a walk-over for senator in the Thirtieth district.

THE TOLEDO CONVENTION.

Leading Spirits of the W. C. T. U. Coming.

Mrs. Barns, National President of Y's, to be Present—Also Mrs. Nichols, of Paris Exposition Fame—The Arrangements.

These are very busy days for members of the Woman' Christian Temperance union and the Ys, as they are arranging the countless details for the coming state convention of the W. C. T. U. at Toledo, October 14, 15 and 16.

This will be the eighteenth annual meeting of the state body, and already the local committee has received the names of 350 delegates who will be present, and still more are expected.

This convention is to be composed of the state officers, superintendents of the various departments, state organizers, county presidents and one delegate for every 30 members or fraction over in the unions.

The business sessions will be held in the First Congregational church, and will probably be three a day. In the morning and afternoon the routine work will be done, and in the evening there will be addresses by prominent workers.

Quite a number of prominent ladies will be at Toledo, among them Mrs. Josephine R. Nicholls, who had charge of the national and world's exhibit at the Paris exposition and who will have charge of the national exhibit at the world's fair; Mrs. Zerelda Wallace, of Indianapolis, one of the leading workers in the country; Mrs. F. H. Rastall, of Kansas, business manager of the Woman's Temperance Publishing company, of Chicago; Mrs. Barnes, of New York, the national president of the Ys, and the following state officers: Mrs. Henrietta L. Monroe, president, of Xenia; Mrs. Antoinette H. Clevenger, secretary, of Wilmington, Miss Jessica A. Morgan, recording secretary, of Oberlin, and Miss Emma L. Goodwill, treasurer, of Canton. Frances Willard, the national president, cannot be present.

Tuesday, the 13th, the executive board meets and about 40 members will be present. The Toledo ladies have completed arrangements for the entertainment of the visitors, and will do it handsomely. An entertainment committee has been appointed, four members from each of the nine local unions, with Mrs. C. R. Southland as general chairman. The reception committee consists of the members from each union, with Mrs. Emma D. Nicholas as chairman. Mrs. Louise Eck is chairman of the finance committee.

The Ys will do much of the receiving, and will meet delegates at the trains and conduct them to their places of entertainment.

The ladies will serve lunch each day at noon at the church, and there will be a postoffice and other arrangements that will make matters easy and pleasant for the visitors.

The morning convention promises to be the most successful the state body has ever held.

THEY LOVE THE WEED.

Royal Women Who Enjoy Smoking Cigarettes

Those who rave with unceasing bitterness against women who smoke, and who declare the habit to be ill bred and fast, have no idea of the women they are condemning. The empresses of Russia and Austria, the queen of Italy and the queen regent of Spain, as well as their majesties of Portugal, Roumania and Servia and the countess of Paris are all ardent lovers of tobacco, of which they are also thoroughly good judges. Perhaps the most inveterate smoker among the royal ladies is the empress of Austra, who consumes from 30 to 40 cigaretts a day. She keeps her tobacco in an exquisitely-chased silver box, which, together with a gold ash tray, are always to be seen on her writing table. Her imperial majesty of Russia and Queen Margherita of Italy only smoke in the privacy of their own boudoirs. That of the empress of Russia is a most facinating apartment, which makes a really ideal smoking room.

It is fitted up in the style of one of the loveliest rooms at the Alhambra, palm trees giving it quite a tropical appearance, while tempting lounges invite that repose which is such a delightful adjunct to the fragrant weed. The countess of Paris will look at no tobacco which has not grown in the sunny climate of Havana, and while the queen regent of Spain gives her votz in favor of Egyptian cigarettes, and the queen of Roumania declares in favor of Turkey, Queen Natalie, of Servia, has a store of tobacco from each country, of which she is careful to get only the very best. I believe the cigarette cases carried by some of these ladies are veritable dreams

How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.

As a general family remedy for dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever see anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.

MRS. GRAHAM'S

Cucumber and Elder Flower Cream

Is not a a cosmetic in the sense in which that term is popularly used, but permanently beautifies. It creats a soft, smooth, clear, velvety skin, and by daily use gradually makes the complexion several shades whiter. It is a constant protection from the effects of sun and wind and prevents sunburn and freckles, and blackheads will never come while you use it. It cleanses the face far better than soap and water, nourishes and builds up the skin tissues and thus prevents the formation of wrinkles. It gives the freshness, clearness and smoothness of skin that you had when a little girl. Every lady, young or old ought to use it, as it gives a more youthful appearance to any lady, and that permanently. It contains no acid, powder or alkali, and is as harmless as dew and as nourishing to the skin as dew is to the flower. Price $1.00, at all druggists and hair-dressers, or at Mrs. Gervaise Graham's establishment, 103 Post street, San Francisco, where she treats ladies for all blemishes of the face or figure. Ladies at a distance treated by letter. Send stamp for her little book "How to be Beautiful."

Sample bottles mailed free to any lady on receipt of 10 cents in stamps to pay for postage and packing. Lady Agents wanted.

WING TEE WEE.

Oh, Wing Tee Wee
Was a sweet Chinee,
And she lived in the town of Tac,
And her eyes were blue,
And her curling cue
Hung dangling down her back.
And she fell in love with gay Wan Sil,
Who wrote his love on a laundry bill.

And Ting Tung Told
Was a pirate bold,
And he sailed in a Chinese junk
And he loved, ah, me!
Sweet Wing Tee Wee,
But his valiant heart had sunk;
So he drowned his woes in sparkling "fiz,"
And he swore that the maid would yet be his.

So bold Ting Told
Showed all his gold
To the maid of the town of Tac;
And sweet Wing Wee
Eloped to sea,
And never more came back;
For in far Chinee the maids are fair,
And the maids as false as they are elsewhere.

Of course the odds are heavily against the physician. The Grand Old Man is built that way.

IN THE FIFTH WARD.

Business Men Have No Reason to Complain.

The Growth of the Ward Has Been Substantial.

The Houses Built Have Been Handsome and Valuable—Interviews With Citizens.

There is no ward in the city which is showing more substantial improvement than the Fifth. There is no hurrah about its development, but it grows steadily and with that sort of growth which is most desired by conservative business men.

During the summer nearly ended, there has not been perhaps so much building as other wards can boast of, but the structures have been handsome ones and much more valuable and desirable than those which have been built in former years.

Most of the building has been done on Western and Crittenden avenues and on Erie street.

The new additions on Western avenue are being pushed and are fast building up.

Broadway is rapidly becoming one of the most handsome residence streets in the city, and in a decade from this time will be the most desirable thoroughfare upon which to reside in Toledo.

The manufacturing interests of the ward continue along in the even tenor of their way. Many of them are branching out and extending their plants, thus keeping pace with the steady growth of the city in general.

Business men throughout the ward are generally satisfied with the business they have done this year, and all have roseate visions of the future. Money is more plentiful now than it has been at any time during the year, and merchants are well satisfied with their prospects. The warm weather of the past month has been against some of them, while others have profited thereby.

A Bee strolled over the ward this morning and found much to attract attention. Workmen are busily engaged upon the new church edifice of the congregation of the Immaculate Conception. The old church was located at the corner of Dix and Jarvis streets, but the new building will loom up at the corner of Maumee avenue and Broadway.

The new building, which has been fully described in the Bee, will be a beauty in every particular, and will be a credit to that portion of the city. The foundation of the building is almost completed, and workmen are now banking the earth on the inner side of the walls to keep the water from soaking the walls and ruining them during the winter season. The corner stone will not be laid until spring, and Contractor Malone has the work well under way. Next spring work will begin early and be pushed vigorously until the building is finished.

Thmos Van Aarle: "We are satisfied with our business prospects, but hope, of course, for a better year next. That is natural with business men, and we are no exceptions to the rule. We cannot boast of an unusual amount of new business, but we have held our own, and made a material increase over former years. This is, of course, gratifying and much better than going the other way. Much building? Considerable, and very substantial as far as it has gone. We have not boomed, but what is better, we have grown in a very satisfactory manner."

"Have any manufacturing interests been added, Mr. Van Aarle?"

"Yes, several, and the ones already established have done a flourishing business."

Mr. Lewis Rohr, the prosperous Fifth ward boot and shoe merchant, said: "Business has been very good in our line, and we have absolutely nothing to complain of. People generally have more money now than for some time in the past, and the prosperity of the country has apparently and quite naturally extended to the city. I do not think the ward has had a wonderful growth during the past summer, but it has been of a reliable nature, and we are not complaining. A great many handsome residences have been built of a better class than those usually erected. There is not the room here for building that other wards have. With the exception of a portion of Broadway, nearly every portion of the ward is solidly built up. So far as I am concerned personally, I am satisfied with the business done by the firm during the year so far."

Mr. J. C. Hillebrand, the furniture dealer, said: "The year so far has been a prosperous one for us and the Fifth ward. I do not think people have any reason for complaint. We have here a couple of compact business blocks, as good as any in the city off of Summit street, and the business men are all doing well. As the city grows we grow and keep pace with its prosperity. There is no boom about the prosperity of the Fifth ward, but we are all right."

Capt. Krosbiner, the well known contractor, said: "I have been over every ward in the city within the last month, and I will say that what houses have been erected in the Fifth this year, are above the average as regards beauty and value. The ward is pretty well built up, and it has not much room for new buildings, but there are some handsome new houses along Broadway and Erie street. The ward, in my opinion, has held up its end well.

John Mann: "Business has been fairly good with most of the merchants here, but there is plenty of room for improvement."

The business done by Grasser & Brand, according to Mr. Brand's statement to a Bee, is satisfactory. "It is much larger than last year," said he, "and especially during the past two months. This is owing to the warm weather we have had."

TO SAVE QUAY'S NAME.

Pennsylvania Republicans Have a Hard Job

Shutting Off the Public From a View of the Corruption Among State Officers.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 2.—The joint legislative committee to investigate the offices of the state treasurer and auditor general went into executive session to consider Attorney General Hensel's plan of examination, which he submitted in writing.

Mr. Hensel suggested that State Treasurer Boyer, Auditor General McCamant, ex-State Treasurer Livsey, who cannot be found, and others be subpœnaed in order that he might examine them.

The committee had a long secret session, and by a majority vote resolved to confine the inquiry to the administration of the present state treasurer and auditor general.

The democrats fought strenuously against this move and presented a report which states that the scheme to restrict the investigation will practically prevent the exposure of fraud under former administrations, which are believed to have been corrupt.

The object of the resolution adopted by the majority is to save Quay, who is believed to have profited largely from the use of state treasury funds while Wm. B. Hart, deceased, was state treasurer.

Hart himself made a fortune while he was at the head of the state treasury. Attorney General Hensel took the place of Mr. Fow in the examination of Auditor General McCamant before the committee in the afternoon. He questioned the auditor general at length regarding the conduct of the fiscal affairs at Philadelphia.

Mr. McCamant said it had been impossible for years to collect the personal property tax in the same year that it was levied.

PATTISON WAS JUSTIFIED

In Calling a Special Session of Inquiry.

State Treasurer Boyer's Testimony.

Favors Went to Bardsley—School Warrants Paid Ahead of Time—More of the Corruption.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 2.—Attorney General Hensel has made his debut in the role of inquisitor for the legislative committee which is investigating the conduct of the auditor general and state treasurer's offices.

At the session of the committee he succeeded, by his examination of State Treasurer Boyer, in throwing considerable light upon the illegal transactions between ex-Cashier Livsey and John Bardsley, of which Mr. Boyer was, according to his evidence, well aware.

Under the attorney-general's close questioning, Mr. Boyer admitted that he assented to the drawing of the school warrants for the year 1891, amounting to $420,000, and paid them to Bardsley for the express purpose of evading the operation of the act of 1885, which made it his duty to transfer to the sinking fund all balances in the general fund over $1,550,000.

He desired to reduce the balance in the general fund below that figure, and had the warrants drawn and paid to Bardsley six months before they were due.

Mr. Boyer gave as his reason for this course a necessity to keep money in the general fund for the purpose of meeting prospective appropriations to be made by the legislature, and said that there was danger if the money went into the sinking fund that there would not be money in the general fund to cash warrants when they were drawn on the appropriations. Under Mr. Hensel's searching questions he admitted, however, that the general fund was very large, aggregating over $2,000,000 at the time and that no real necessity for the premature payment of the school money actually existed. He also admitted that no officer of the city of Philadelphia or of the public schools of the city had asked for the money in advance, and that so far as he knew it was not needed. He further stated that no warrants were ever drawn or paid in advance for any of the other 2,200 school districts of the state.

He was asked about the $150,000 which Auditor General McCamant testified was sent as a warrant to Bardsley for the city's share of the personal tax collected there, when only $300,000 out of over $700,000 of the tax had been paid by Bardsley to the state.

Mr. Boyer said he knew nothing whatever about it. He was not aware that the warrant had been drawn by Mr. McCamant and paid by Livsey until several months after it was done.

In reply to further questions Treasurer Boyer admitted that had this $150,000 been in the state treasury on December 30, 1890, the balance in the general fund would not have been reduced below the figure which compelled payment into the sinking fund, even deducting the $420,000 of school money paid to Bardsley on that day. He said he got his information about the amount of the balance from Livsey.

Treasurer Boyer also stated that the law requiring the investment of sinking fund moneys in United States bonds had never been observed during his administration as state treasurer.

Want an Extra Session.

Capt. Skinner, in view of the fact that the state is annually losing about $80,000 in the advertisement and collection of mercantile taxes in Philadelphia and other large sums from the retention of fees by the register of wills, offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the governor be requested to consider the expediency of convening both branches of the legislature to repeal the law providing for advertising the mercantile tax lists and enact legislation abolishing the fee system, so as such laws will be in effect when the officers chosen at the coming election take their offices.

The captain said that enough money would be saved by such legislation to more than pay for the extra session. The resolution was defeated by a strict party vote, Messrs Skinner, Fow and Monaghan voting for its Stewart, Keyser, Flinn, Fruit and Smith against it.

MRS. SWEET'S PICK-UP.

She Claims and is Getting a Big Piece of Chicago.

Her Suit is So Just That People are Settling With Her to Clear Their Titles.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—Mrs. Emily Sweet, through her attorneys, is engaged in pressing the largest and richest claim of dower ever heard of by Chicago lawyers.

Valuable property scattered all over the city is affected by the claim, which appears to be so just and strong that some of the property holders in question have already settled with Mrs. Sweet on a cash basis, to have clouds removed from their titles.

Suits in petition of dower have been started in other cases. The claim dates back over half a century. Mrs. Sweet declares she did not sign deeds for the property, when it passed into other hands, from her husband, Alanson Sweet, a pioneer of Chicago.

GRATIFYING TO ALL.

The high position attained and the universal acceptance and approval of the pleasant liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs, as the most excellent laxative known, illustrate the value of the qualities on which its success is based and are abundantly gratifying to the California Fig Syrup Company.

EIGHT MINERS KILLED.

London, Oct. 2.—A dispatch from Bridgend, Glamorgan county, Wales, reports the killing of eight miners by the overwinding of the pit gear at the colliery near that place.

WOOD COUNTY FAIR.

The C., H. & D. announces a rate of a fare and a third for the round trip from Toledo, North Baltimore and intermediate stations to Bowling Green on account of the Wood county fair. Tickets are good going Sept. 29 to Oct. 3, inclusive, and returning until Oct. 3, inclusive.

A million dollar building is to be erected in Chicago on the southeast corner of Washington and State streets, to the memory of Columbus. It will be 16 stories high and will be of the Spanish style of architecture. Over its main entrance will be placed a colossal statue of Columbus in bronze. It will be nine feet in height and after an original design. It will represent the discoverer in the act of taking possession of the new world.

WORLD OF METHODISM.

The Ecumenical Conference in Washington.

Preparations for Entertaining the Guests.

Important Matters to be Discussed by the Delegates in the Session Which Will Last Two Weeks.

"Such an opportunity most of us will never again have to see and hear the kind of men Methodism is developing," writes Dr. J. M. Buckley of the coming Methodist ecumenical conference, to be held at Washington, D. C., Oct. 7 to Oct. 20 inclusive.

This is the second conference of the kind in the history of Methodism, the first having been held in London, Eng., in September, 1881, in the City Road Chapel, an edifice constructed in the lifetime of Wesley, whose remains are buried in the adjacent ground.

The pleasures and benefits of the Pan-Anglican council, consisting of delegates from all bodies with which the Church of England is in communion, and the Pan-Presbyterian council at Belfast, made up of the different divisions of that church, induced the leaders of Methodism, which had spread to every English-speaking country in the world and to many others, to hold a similar council, but to take its universal name of conference. The word ecumenical has been applied, not upon the claim that Methodism is to be a universal religion, but that this conference consists of delegates from all the branches of Methodism and those bodies more closely affiliated with it than any other denominational root.

The London conference was in the highest degree a success. The principal and good effects were from the religious and fraternal spirit manifested and cultivated. Says a delegate: "As a composer of feuds and long-standing prejudices, an inspirer to zeal, an encouragement to greater labors, and as a proof of missionary successes, it was an education which would have been cheaply procured at the cost of six months of time and travel."

There were many conspicious figures in the Methodist church present at the London conference, though only a short ten years ago, who will not be seen at Washington. Chief among them are the then venerable president of the Wesleyan conference, Dr. George Osborn; the incomparable Bishop Simpson, for able and dignified Bishop Peck, the thoughtful Dr. A. C. George, and the beloved Bishop M'Tveire of the Methodist Episcopal church, South.

The conference will first consist of two sections—eastern and western, and for convenience of organization and for the purposes of equity and fraternity the whole Methodist community will be included in four general divisions, as follows: First, the Methodist Episcopal church, and the Methodist Episcopal church, South; second, other Methodist churches in the United States and Canada; third, the British Methodist Wesleyan churches; fourth, other British Methodist churches—the several churches described being inclusive of their respective mission fields and affiliated conferences.

The business committee will consist of 20 members—five from each division—and it shall be their duty to receive and report upon all resolutions, proposals, questions or communications not included in the regular programme; to appoint the presiding officer of the conference for each day, selecting from the various divisions in their order, and to nominate the secretaries in the same mode of distribution.

There will be but two evening sessions in the 14 days, and two sessions on all others. The topics for addresses and discussions are: "The Christian Church, Its Essential Unity and Genuine Catholicity;" "The Church and Scientific Thought;" "The Church and Her Agencies;" "Education;" "Romanism;" "Temperance;" "Social Problems;" "Missions;" "War and Peace;" "The Church and Public Morality;" and "The Outlook."

Many interesting phases of each of the above tonics will be presented, and are asigned for treatment in a very equitable arrangement, to the delegates chosen from each of the 16 distinctive bodies of the church. There is a grand total of 500 delegates, and this body, though without legislative functions or powers of any sort, will, in the "meeting and mingling of the men from places so wide apart, have healing and help for the great cause in which we are engaged."

As Bishop Simpson was the preacher in London in 1881, so William Arthur, a great name in the Wesleyan body, will be the preacher of the conference sermon at Washington. "There will be no attempt at organic union—they are all disciples of John Wesley, and are now drawing toward each other, yearning for a fuller and more generous fellowship." The distinguished men from various sections will be there—bishops, presidents of colleges, secretaries, great pulpit orators, cultured laymen from the bar, trade and legislative hall.

A grand reception is to be given to such of the delegates of this country and from abroad as are present in New York on the 5th of October at the Carnegie Music Hall, Seventh avenue and Fifty-seventh street. A mass meeting of the Epworth League is to be held in connection with the conference on the evening of Tuesday, Oct. 13, at the Metropolitan church, with an overflow meeting at Dr. Sunderland's. It is believed that this will be the largest gathering of the Epworth Leaguers ever held in the country.

The delegates from the New England conference residents in Boston are Dr. Warren of the Boston University, Dr. J. W. Hamilton and Mr. A. Spear. The ministry will have a satisfying representation in Dr. Charles Parkhurst, Rev. George A. Crawford and others, and the lessened cost of transportation will call out a large delegation of laymen.

LOOK AT THIS.

Are these not healthy and bright children? Their appearance does not misrepresent them; they are both healthy and bright. They are the son and daughter of Mr. J. P. Wiley of Dorchester, Mass., and he has an interesting story to tell in regard to them. The story is as follows:

"In 1886 my wife, accompanied by my little boy, at that time 11 months old, was visiting relatives in Scranton, Penna. The little fellow was suffering untold agony cutting his teeth. My wife was told to try Dr. Hand's Teething Lotion. The effect was magical. It did not stupefy the child, as most remedies of this character do; it simply soothed the pain of the burning and aching gums. I might write a volume, had I the time, praising this remedy, and then not express my feelings or do it justice, it is simply marvellous. After her return to Boston she wanted another bottle, but I found that it was unknown in this city. I corresponded with Dr. Hand, and received in reply a sample of each of his remedies. I used them on both my children, recommended them to all my friends, and have yet to find the person who, after using the remedies, especially Teething Lotion and Colic Cure, that could not praise them. People may say, and have said to me, 'Oh, there must be something in that Teething Lotion that affects a child's brain.' In reply to this, I will say I have two children, a boy and girl, who have been treated with Teething Lotion since time of beginning to end of teething, and I challenge any person to furnish two with any cleaner brains. I heartily recommend them to parents who love their little ones."

The Passenger Men.

Toledo members of the passenger department of the Central Traffic association received a call this morning for a meeting to be held at Chicago Tuesday next. The following are some of the subjects that will come up:

Where concessions are authorized on the certificate plan should not party or other special fares be prohibited.

Abrogation of unlimited fares—action of the Trunk Line association

Retirement of mileage tickets.

Basis for determining excess baggage rates.

Rates for hunters, party rates, etc.

The Discharged Agents.

The Lake Shore agents who have been discharged for accepting commisions are to hold a meeting, compare notes and attempt to discover who it was that gave the information against them, and when discovered who it was, the name of the informers will be given the widest publicity by the agents. The custom of receiving commissions has been in vogue so long that the men feel entitled to them. These commissions sometimes amount to more than their regular wages and as the latter are small the extra money comes in handy. Then, too, the western roads are anxious and ready to pay commissions, and the agents don't see any harm in taking them.

In some of the places where the agents were discharged petitions are being circulated by the citizens asking that they be reinstated.

Stockholders Meeting.

The stockholders of the Lakeside and Marblehead Railroad company have re-elected their old trustees as follows: C. Cushing Love, E. J. Blandin, N. Kelly, H. A. Blood, J. C. Hale, Caleb E. Gowen, D. G. Cutler, G. N. Smalley and W. A. Pardee.

Excursion Rates Authorized.

A rate of one and one-third fares for round trip has been authorized from this territory to the following meetings:

Grand Chapter Royal Arch Masons and Grand Council Royal and Select Masters of Ohio, Cincinnati, Oct. 6-10.

American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, Pittsfield, Mass., Oct. 13-16.

Annual meeting American Public Health association, Kansas City, Oct. 20-23.

National Wholesale Druggists' association, Louisville, Oct. 19-23.

National Farmers' Congress, Sedalia, Mo., Nov. 10-20.

Accidentally Killed Himself.

The sad news of the accidental shooting of Thomas Stephenson, one of the best known engineers on the Lake Shore, has reached Toledo. He used to run from Air Line Junction to Elkhart, Ind. He had a short time off yesterday morning at Elkhart and he took a rifle and went out to shoot sparrows. He fell, and in his descent discharged the gun. The bullet went through his head, killing him instantly.

Cinders Here and There.

Chief Engineer A. L. Mills, of the T., St. L. & K. C., is down the line.

General Manager J. M. Ferris, of the Ohio Central lines, is in Cleveland to-day.

E. E. Jenkins, general passenger agent of the Clover Leaf, has returned from St. Louis.

General Freight Agent Hudson Fitch of the Toledo & Ohio Central is in Cincinnati to-day.

General Superintendent T. M. Peelar of the T. & O. C. has returned from a trip over the lines.

Lynn E. Stone, a former Toledoan, has been appointed agent of the Central States Dispatch at Indianapolis.

Traveling Passenger Agent J. J. Kirby of the Toledo, Ann Arbor & North Michigan railroad is taking a trip over the line.

Reduced rates have been authorized to the meeting of the American Missionary association at Cleveland October 20-22.

The earnings of the Toledo, Columbus & Cincinnati railroad for the last week in September amounted to $9,170, an increase of $739.

The Columbus, Hocking Valley and Toledo railroad closed a contract this week with the Michigan Car company, of Detroit, for 100 25-ton coal cars.

T. C. Modewell, stenographer in the T. & O. C. general superintendent's office, is spending his vacation in the northern part of the state.

The earnings of the Toledo & Ohio Central for the month of September were $133,774, a decrease of $6,228, compared with September of 1890.

Mr. C. Van Fleet of the T., A. A. & N. M. general manager's office leaves today for a short vacation. He will visit Chicago and other western cities.

The earnings of the T., A. A. & N. M. for the fourth week in September amounted to $7,422, an increase of $603 compared with the same period of last year.

T. C. M. Schinder, general freight and passenger agent of the C., J. & M., is spending a few days at his old home at Middletown, Ind. His family accompanies him.

The earnings of the Toledo, St. Louis & Kansas City railroad for September, 1891 amounted to $181,408, an increase of $51,272 compared with the earnings for the corresponding month of 1890.

It is proposed by the Columbus, Hocking Valley and Toledo railroad to run a "Royal Red" train from Columbus to Chicago without change during the world's fair. The whole train will be a rich ride, and the appointments will be in keeping with the royal title.

The C., H. V. & T. shops are working on tanks for three engines to have a capacity of 3,700 gallons, about twice the capacity of the old engines. Engines with the new tanks frequently run from Toledo to Columbus without taking water.

EVERY NIGHT IN THE WEEK

The Natural Gas Office Will Open For Business.

Fixing the Prices for Breweries—Petitions for More Service Lines—Gas Trustees Meet.

Owing to the rush of people to make contracts for city gas, it was decided at the meeting of the gas trustees last evening to keep the offices open every evening during October until 8 p. m. As it is now, the office is crowded until that hour almost every night.

Mr. Brown introduced the resolution, and tacked onto it a clause to the effect that all employes compelled to work the three hours overtime be given extra pay to the extent of 15 per cent of a day's wages.

An interesting discussion followed.

Mr. Backus opposed the granting of extra pay on the grounds that it was not business. No mercantile firm did it and he thought it would establish a bad precedent.

Mr. Brown said he did not know or care what some mercantile firms did. He knew what he did, and believed in paying employes extra for extra work; it was fair and just. He would not work for a firm that would not do so.

President Parsons—"Mr. Backus, do you wish to make an amendment?"

"What is the use? It would get no second." (Laughter.)

President Parsons—How do you know? Mr. Backus—It is the way my motions generally go. However, I will move as an amendment that no extra wages be paid for this extra work.

President Parsons—Well, in order to bring it before the board I second it.

After some further discussion the resolution passed.

Secretary Brown reported receipts of $5,144 since Monday's meeting.

The committee on claims recommended the payment of claims amounting to $9,170. Adopted.

Mr. Greene moved that the manager be authorized to buy 30,000 feet of four-inch and 20,000 feet of six-inch pipe from the Chester Iron and Tube company.

Mr. Backus thought it were better if competitors had a chance to bid.

Dr. Jones said the Chester people were the lowest of three bids received.

The motion carried, Mr. Backus voting no.

It was decided to refund the cost of meters to consumers out of the price of gas consumed.

It was also decided to give the Buckeye brewery gas at established rates per barrel and that the cost of meters be refunded. The rate will be 9 cents a barrel. Gas will also be furnished the Finlay brewery at the same rate.

Mr. Brown introduced a resolution that contracts to private consumers be limited to one year, and the resolution was referred.

Patrick O'Neill applied for a line on Washington street. Referred.

Petitions for lines on the following streets were read:

Bartlett, from Lawrence to Forest.

Missouri, Washington to Forest.

Jarvis, Maumee avenue to Broadway.

Crane lane, Orange to Cherry.

Manager Heston made a report of the work performed since the last meeting.

Lines will be laid on Mott street, East Toledo; Field avenue, South Railroad avenue, Broadway to Sumner street; Dorr, Ewing to Wells street.

Rates for No. 9 mixers were fixed at $6,805, discounted $6,220.

A proposition from Mr. R. W. Smith was referred.

Several other matters of minor importance was transacted and the meeting adjourned.

AFFAIRS IN TIFFIN.

The Wittenberg Synod Finds Plenty to Do.

Another Pastor Told to Seek Other Pastures—Robbers Numerous—General Mention.

Tiffin, Oct. 2.—(Special)—The session of the Wittenberg synod of the Lutheran church, now in progress in this city, has developed some very lively features. Having disposed of Rev. Mitterling by convicting him of gross immorality, it yesterday took up the case of Rev. Adam Shafer, of Leipsic, who had been tried and condemned by the Western conference on the charges of lying and creating dissension and division in his congregation, defying the authority of the synod and applying for admission to the Presbyterian church and being received into the Lima presbytery while his case was still pending in this synod.

Several hours were devoted to the hearing, and upon a vote being taken the action of the conference was sustained, and Mr. Shafer is no longer a minister of the Lutheran church.

Broke His Arm.

Claire Vanblarcum, of Fostoria, rode over on his bicycle yesterday for the purpose of witnessing the wheel contests at the fair. While passing along East Perry street he took a sudden and disastrous header, resulting in a broken arm and other painful injuries.

The Victims of Thieves.

During the fair this week the city has been overrun by a gang of thieves, and numerous petty depredations are reported, the most serious sufferer being Mrs. Reuben Mosier, residing in the northern part of the city, who is the victim of a peculiar combination of unfortunate circumstances.

Yesterday afternoon she locked up her house and went to the fair, and while absorbed in contemplation of the attractive features of the exhibits had her pocket picked of cash to the amount of $8 and a note for $50.

Discouraged by her experience, she returned home, only to find that during her absence thieves had broken into the house and stolen $150 from a drawer in the dresser. Mrs. Mosier has some doubts concerning the utility of county fairs.

Seneca County Fair.

The Seneca county fair closes a very successful exhibition of four days to-day. The weather has been delightful, the attendance liberal and the exhibits large, varied and attractive. A leading feature of yesterday's program was the bicycle races; first a mile handicap dash, and second a half-mile, best two in three. Both were easily won by D. Y. Bernhart, of Toledo.

ALL ABOARD FOR ADA.

The C., H. V. & T. Will Run a Special Train.

The C., H. V. & T. railroad will run a special train to Ada next Thursday, the occasion of the joint debate between Gov. Campbell and Major McKinley.

The train will leave here Thursday morning, but the time of leaving has not been arranged.

This arrangement will give Toledo democrats and republicans a chance to hear the great discussion without much expense.

CHARGED WITH FORGERY.

Huntington, Ind., Oct. 2.—(Special)—Last night Marshal Rosebrough arrested a farmer named Charles Stewart, of Whitley county, indicted for forging notes for the purchase of a team, wagon and harness. He was removed to Columbia City for trial.

DEAF MUTES MADE TO HEAR.

Some of the Ingenious Inventions Which Have Led to This Result.

In every age prolonged struggles have been made against deafness; there have been special physicians, special instruments, and special remedies for the ear, says the Paris Revue de Famille. The acoustic cornet of Dr. Larrey, intended to be concealed in the hair; the acoustic bell of Dr. Itard, acoustic tubes, dilating tubes, artificial ears of metal, silk and gutta percha, audiphones, auricular microphones, conches, artificial tympanums, even acoustic fans for the use of ladies, have had, at divers times, a reputation more or less deserved. Finally, the announcement was made a few days ago that a new acoustic cornet had been found, which not only enabled the deaf to hear, but which diminished and even conquered deafness. In order to see that wonder, of which I had some doubt, I immediately went to Bourgia-Reine, to the institution for deaf mutes kept by the Sisters of Calvary. With a fine architectural appearance, in the midst of trees and flowers, the house seems the sweetest of nests for the poor creatures who are sheltered there. In the little room in which I was received there were already several persons from different places, and even from abroad, waiting to see the experiments directed by the inventor, M. Verrier. Wearied by the suffering and the isolation into which deaf-mute children were often plunged by their infirmity, desirous above all to prepare some of them for their first communion, the venerable prelate sought the shortest way to reach their hearts. He addressed himself to their ears, and after many attempts and much stumbling he succeeded in producing that new cornet, on which he has taken out a patent.

The apparatus is composed of a large bell of enameled metal, united by a gutta-percha tube, about fifty centimeters in length, to a little bone tube covered with gutta-percha, which extends somewhat beyond it. The tube is covered outside by a light stuff intended to arrest all foreign vibrations. The little tube penetrates into the auditory passage, and touches the tympanum. Thanks to this, not a sound, not a breath is lost on the patient and no matter how little hearing remains to him, he percieves sounds and noises, that is to say, vowels and consonants, and finally he even hears words. At least that was the theory which was explained by the physicians who assisted at the experiments, and of which I am able, from having seen them, to state the results. A sister, holding the new cornet, placed the end of it in the ear of each individual brought to her, and made them hear several phrases, without moving her lips, and speaking in a low tone. The sound arrived clearly, although muzzled, without resonance, and with a remarkable intensity. I note, in passing, that the extremity of the tube could be unscrewed, and that each pupil had his own; a wise hygienic precaution.

Afterward the sister took a little girl of the first year, placed the apparatus in her ear, and pronounced at the other extremity, papa, mamma, ta-ta, apap, etc., which the child easily repeated. She was not able to say words on the lips of her teacher because they were concealed by the bell, and, moreover, she looked timidly to the ground. The assistants asked for several words. I proposed my name, knowing by experience that, composed of three syllables, commencing with d, s, ch, it is very difficult to pronounce. This also discomposed the intelligent professor. Du, du, du, said the voice in the cornet; the child repeated perfectly. sou, sou. Here the pupil made a gesture of discouragement; se, se, repeated the teacher; that was heard and repeated; then sou, sou, was again tried; finally the syllable was pronounced exactly the same way with chet. The sister pointed me out with a glance of the eye, and the child also said, "Mon cur Dussouchet." She had added the mons cur herself, spontaneous politeness having embellished her articulation. Evidently the child neither knew my name, nor was able to read it on the lips of her teacher—then she had heard! Further, when she had pronounced badly, the teacher again made use of the cornet, so that the deaf mute spoke by ear, and corrected her own pronunciation.

"Was the child absolutely deaf?" I demanded of Manager Verrier. "The 100 pupils of this institution are deaf mutes and before commencing these experiments the degree of hearing was scrupulously noted and duly stated by competent persons. As to the rest, wait; you shall see still more." A pupil of the third year was called in her turn. I saw for myself that she read upon the lips perfectly words like "You speak well; the table is black," etc. Then the apparatus was applied to her and the professor repeated several little phrases. When she hesitated the bell placed before her mouth gave her the proper sounds and she corrected herself. That was not all. The sister repeated the same phrase: "This is a beautiful day," in different tones, from the lowest to the highest, and the child responded like an echo, with the exact insonations. Finally a fable was breathed into her ear by means of the cornet, which she repeated very prettily, taking the exact inflections of the teacher. In addition to all this the cornet exercises an unexpected influence on the hearing of the children; the obliterated sense seems to awaken in them after repeated experiments. It was a touching sight to see the poor girl, isolated, deaf, and silent in the midst of a crowd, respond to the appeal of the outside world, of which the voice had reached her for the first time.

HOW TO DRIVE

A Few Simple Rules That Owners of Horses Should Know.

To properly drive the light harness horse, or, as he is known all over the world, "the American trotter," there are four things which are essential for the driver to know, and which not 10 per cent. of the drivers of the present day know, viz: First, how to harness the horse; second, how to hitch him to a wagon; third, how to sit to look well and at the same time ride comfortably; and, fourth, how to hold the lines. Of those who are master of the situation, know a fast trotting horse and how to handle him, the Russians come nearer to it than those of any other country, but were we to educate and train the Orloff horse, they would have to take a back seat, as England had to do with the thoroughbred.

The harness must be kept clean, which will greatly remove the danger of chafing, and particularly the saddle, which, if properly cared for and the back of the horse well washed with clean, cold water when it is removed, there will be no danger of soreness there. The bridle is the hardest part to be made to fit nicely, and when that is accomplished, one great and often fatal mistake is very often made of drawing the throat latch too tight. It crosses the windpipe and as the horse moves along he drops his nose a little, thus expanding the throat, breathing shorter at every stride, and finally choking completely, staggers and falls. Leave the strap loose enough for you to place your hand between it and the throat without touching either. There will be no danger of the bridle coming off, as the draught is always backward on it from the check and lines, and the bit and browband prevent it from coming back over the head. If you desire to stop and tie the animal to a post and he is inclined to rub his bridle off, it is little trouble to draw up the buckle a hole or two, letting it out again when starting. The breast collar, also, should not be drawn up too high, as that will likewise affect the breathing. Let it come up just to the lower point of the neck and have the hip straps of a lenghth that will bring the breeching about on a line with it. The thill loops should also be on about the same line.

In hitching to the wagon another serious mistake is often made with the breeching. How many times you will see a driver trying to get a little speed out of his horse that is obliged to go hitching and bobbling along, simply because he is tied up so tight that he cannot spread himself. When standing and the traces are straightened, there should be about room enough for a small boy to crawl through between the horse and breeching strap. He will then carry you further and faster, and do it with less effort, there being nothing to fret him.

In taking your seat in the wagon do not try to lie down, like a lady in a Victoria, but sit erect, allowing the small of your back to rest against the cushion, and bend a trifle forward. Place the feet out against the rest, and do not crawl under the seat causing the knees to come in contact with the chin. Wrap the lap robe neatly about you, and see that no part of it is hanging out of the wagon. When the lines are taut have the hands out to carry the elbow about three inches from the body, not up to your chin, where you could not shorten your hold instantly, neither have them extended at arms' length, as, should your horse take a little hold, you cannot pull as hard or as long. Regard in this manner, your horse is comfortable, you are ready for any emergency and comfortable yourself, besides making a good appearance, which should be taken into consideration in this as well as in other things.

There is one rule, which, if followed will always be successful, and though it is old will do to repeat here. It is called "The Horse's prayer":

"Up hill hurry me not.
Down hill worry me not.
On the level spare me not.
And in the barn forget me not."

But the skill in driving a single trotter is nothing compared with driving two and one can almost count the artistic team drivers on his fingers. Dan Moore was acknowledged the crack professional when alive, but, among gentlemen who only drove for pleasure, William H. Vanderbilt was, without a doubt, the best, and although he was classed as an amateur, there were few professionals who could equal him. At the present day his performance, driving Maud S. and Aldine a full mile in 2:15¾ to a top wagon, is considered the best by horsemen. John Shepherd, the Boston merchant, also showed himself an artist behind his crack team, Mill Boy and Blondine. The best double-team driver of the present day is C. J. Hamlin, of Buffalo. Last season, when in his 77th year, he drove Belle Hamlin and Justina a mile in 2:13¾.

All these wonderful feats requires, besides a perfect reinsman, a perfectly matched team, and this is a difficult part of the contract. A perfect team, above all things, must be mouthed alike; they must take hold of the bit as one; they must take kindly to each other, and if they do this and are not gaited alike, will in a short time come to each other. Their dispositions must be to outdo each other, or you can never have a fast team.—Philadelphia Record.

BREAD OUT OF SAWDUST.

Scientists Now at Work on the Problem and May Solve It.

A Washington Star reporter was informed that the department of agriculture is interested in a plan for making bread out of sawdust.

Absurd? By no means. Scientists believe that there is no good reason why the thing should not be entirely practicable. Everybody knows that starch is a substance extremely nutritious; in fact, it is nearly all nutriment. Well, starch and sawdust are the same thing. Sawdust, which is "cellulose," is precisely the same chemical composition as starch.

The two are expressed by the same chemical formula—C6 H10 O5—that is, six parts of carbon, ten of hydrogen, and five parts of oxygen. These are the simple ingredients of either starch or sawdust. Scientific experimenters have been trying for a long time to find out a way to transform the one into the other. If they should succeed the discovery would be away ahead of the philosopher's stone in point of value. An inexhaustible source of food supply would at once be rendered available in the forests, the grass, and even in straw and chaff.

Hitherto chemistry has occupied itself almost wholly with taking things apart, in order to find out what they are made of; but now the science is directing its attention to putting elements together for the production of useful substances. Already it has succeeded in the artificial preparation of indigo, alizarin, aric acid, and many other compounds. The aniline colors obtained from coal tar and yet rivaling the most brilliant tints of the rainbow, are similarly produced. So complex are some of them that their names, which give full accounts of their composition, have to be regular seven-league words, one beautiful dye being known as "Hexamethylmethoxyrimidotriphenycarbinol." From coal tar is like manner are derived many valuable anti-fever medicines and soporifics.

The prospects of this new science of putting elements together seem infinite, and the era of bliss may yet dawn which has been prophesied by the illustrious naturalist Frederick Cohn, who says that all struggles for existence among men arising for want of food will be done away with when chemistry shall have learned to make starch from carbolic acid and water. Plants grow by doing just that, and it may, therefore, be said that farmers have been engaged since time immemorial in this very chemical industry. It would scarcely be so surprising, then, if the farmes of this country should be replaced at some time in the future by chemical laboratories.

SAVED BY THE BOYS.

Capt. H. J. King, of Chamberlain, S. D., is one of the best known Missouri river steamboat captains in the west, having been running on the upper river constantly for the last 28 years. The captain is a good story teller, says the Detroit Free Press, and while speaking of the early Indian troubles on the upper river told how the valor of a body of Indians saved a steamer and thereby turned the tide of battle. In August, 1875, the steamer Katie P. Kountz and other steamers were unable to proceed to Fort Benton, their destination, on account of the extreme low water, and were compelled to discharge their cargoes at Cow island, 120 miles below Benton. The cargoes consisted mostly of government supplies for the military posts in the upper country. A company of infantry was sent from Fort Shaw to guard the supplies, and while in camp some 800 Sioux came in and attacked the guard camp, which had been reinforced by some Crow Indians. The Crows at once sallied out and engaged the Sioux in combat, but were soon defeated and driven back into camp. The Crows then sent a runner to their village for reinforcements. The reinforcements arrived in due time, and they again made an attack upon the Sioux, who onie more defeated them, and the Crows were compelled to retreat to their white allies, who had fortified themselves behind the boxes and barrels of supplies.

After the second defeat the news was soon received at the Crow village, and the squaws promptly armed all boys between the ages of 10 and 18—about 200 in all—and sent them to the assistance of their fathers and relatives. Upon appearing in view of the besieged camp, dashing along with whoop and yell, the Crows rushed out on their swift little ponies and attempted to stop the boys and prevent them from entering the battle, but they might as well have tried to stop a cyclone. The boys scattered out and eluded their elders, and immediately attacked the large body of the Sioux. Seeing their young men hotly engaged in battle with the hated foe was too much for the old warriors, and, uttering their fierce battle-cry, they went to their assistance, and the battle between the Sioux and Crows became general. Notwithstanding the bravery of the Sioux, they were unable to long withstand the fierce attack of the Crows, and soon began to retreat up Cow creek, a small stream that enters the Missouri near the spot where the battle commenced.

A week after the fight Capt. King arrived there on the steamer Gen. Meade, loaded with private cargo, and owing to the same cause that stopped other boats from going farther up the river found it necessary to remain there, and the captain and party went to Benton by pony to make arrangements to have the freight brought by the steamer transported over and to that point. In going to Benton their road lay along the entire length of the battle ground, and the terrible havoc wrought by the Crows and Sioux could still be plainly seen. Dead Indians, dead ponies, blankets, war implements, etc., were strewn over the entire 18 miles where the running fight had taken place. In fear of their own scalps none of the party lingered long enough to collect any of the relics.

Michele D'Esposito, a well known Italian of this city, in looking up his list of valuable securities, some time ago, discovered a lot of Turkish bonds which he had purchased in Naples some years ago. By a curious coincidence all the bonds of that series had been sold in Italy, and the recent war cloud in eastern Europe has made Turkey so anxious to keep on good terms with Italy that she has begun to redeem the bonds. D'Esposito avard the good news, and yesterday shipped the securities to Genoa for redemption. What he bought at a large discount years ago now appears likely to realize him a snug sum.—Philadelphia Record.

Mrs. Henrietta Morgan, mother of the famous confederate general, John H. Morgan, who died at Lexington, Ky., on Monday last, was in her eighty-sixth year. She gave six sons to the cause of the confederacy, two of whom survive her. One daughter was the wife of the famous confederate general, A. P. Hill and the other was the wife of Gen. Basil Duke, who, with his brother-in-law, was captured in Ohio.

It is estimated that the western railroads have earned $250,000 the past year from the transportation of Mormon missionaries and their proselytes. Enough disciples are brought over from Europe every year to keep the Mormon colonies thriving. Regularly every two weeks the converts from foreign lands pass through Kansas City in bands of from 75 to 100. They are in charge always of an elder, who is sent by the Mormons of Utah to work in Europe.

CHEATING IN HORSE BLANKETS
Nearly every pattern of 5/A Horse Blanket is imitated in color and style. In most cases the imitation looks just as good as the genuine, but it hasn't the warp threads, and so lacks strength, and while it sells for only a little less than the genuine it isn't worth one-half as much. The fact that 5/A Horse Blankets are copied is strong evidence that they are THE STANDARD, and every buyer should see that the 5/A trade mark is sewed on the inside of the Blanket.

MR. SCOTT'S CAREER.

From a Condition of Penury to the Possession of $20,000 000.

The story of the life of ex-Congressman William L. Scott, of Pennsylvania, partakes somewhat of the romantic. Not so many years ago he was a penniless man, gaining his livelihood by peddling fish about the streets of Erie. At the time of his death he was reputed to be worth $20,000,000, and the employer of thousands of men.

It has been stated upon his own authority that he knew very little about his birth and the first years of his life. He was the son of a colonel in the regular army, a Virginian by birth and education, though resident in Washington at the time young Scott was born, in 1828. Both Col. Scott and his wife died while their son was yet a mere lad. They were in poor circumstances, and the boy was turned out into the world to shift for himself.

The first of his numerous occupations that he could remember was when, early in his teens, he found himself a page in the house of representatives. He was popular with the members, obliging and polite in his manners, and made many friends among the congressmen. Mr. Reed, who then represented the Erie district in the house, took great interest in the bright little fellow, and toward the end of the session he asked him if he wouldn't like to go home with him. Having nowhere else to go when congress adjourned, Scott complied, and was put to work as shipping clerk on the wharves of his employer, who was at that time one of the principal owners of the now almost vanishing shipping of the great lakes.

For the next few years the youth worked at a number of things. He was a clerk, peddled fish, tramped, and did everything that he could get to do. At last he returned to Erie and commerce, and in 1850, when he was but 23 years old, he was in the coal and shipping business, owning and running several vessels on the great lakes.

From this time on the story of his life is not greatly unlike that of other successful business men. He married well, which is a great thing in itself. His wife was a sister to Frank D. Tracy, who was at one time very prominent in the New York Stock Exchange, and, at the time of his death, president of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railroad.

By the marriage Mr. Scott got considerable property, but he also got something far more valuable, a good, helpful wife and an introduction into the stock exchange. Here he became acquainted with Samuel J. Tilden, Mr. Vanderbilt the elder and other worthy magnates of Gotham. They were quick to recognize his ability as a financier and manager, and from this time his upward progress was rapid.

He became interested in the manufacture of iron and the mining of coal, as well as the construction and operation of railroads. He owned anthracite mines in his adopted state and bituminous in West Virginia, and, as either president or director, he was said to control over 22,000 miles of railroad, probably the largest number of miles managed by one man in the world.

And so the page who lived in Washington became a man of national prominence, the largest coal operator in west Pennsylvania and the Hocking Valley, a director in half a dozen railroads, president of two or three banks, and one of the recognized supports of the administration.

In 1868 Mr. Scott's name was first prominently mentioned in connection with politics, and then, as at the time of his death, he was a democrat. In that year he was a district delegate to the national democratic convention held in New York. He was a delegate at large from Pennsylvania, to the democratic national convention of 1880, and also represented his state on the democratic national committee from 1876 to 1884. The many local honors that Mr. Scott received included his election as mayor of Erie in 1860, and again in 1871.

He was elected to the Forty-ninth congress, being largely supported by independent republicans, as well as by votes of his own party, although his district had heretofore been considered a republican stronghold.

During the canvass the opposition claimed that he was directly connected with the "Morey letter," a forged document, which had been put forth to injure Gen. Garfield, the republican presidential candidate in 1880, in the estimation of the workingmen. Notwithstanding this the nation, Mr. Scott was victorious. He attracted considerable public attention in 1886 by presenting an amendment to the silver bill, one of its provisions being to limit the amount of silver coin in the treasury to $24,000,000. He was a candidate for the Fiftieth congress, and was re-elected.

Mr. Scott was the richest man in the house of representatives while he served in congress, and, by a singular coincidence, his Washington residence, facing Farragut square and overlooking Connecticut avenue, had for its next door neighbor the residence of Senator Stanford, of California, the most wealthy member of the senate.

Mr. Scott gave some of the best dinners at the capital, often superintending them himself, for he was accounted among the best amateur cooks among the public men in Washington, although his chef was a jewel.

Mr. Scott was not a society man himself, although his wife and daughters were very fond of social pleasures, and they entered with a fine zest, their own entertainments being given with all the lavishness which would naturally become the establishment of so rich, prominent and influential a man as he who presided over the establishment.

While young Scott was a page in the house during the Twenty-ninth congress, Arthur P. Gorman, of Maryland, was in the senate, forming a similar duty in the senate. Forty years afterwards, when the election of Cleveland was assured, these two celebrated the long and anxiously awaited democratic victory by a Delmonico dinner, which the six invited guests long after spoke of as one of the most perfectly arranged and served dinners they had ever attended.

He was always a warm friend of Mr. Tilden, and thought he should have been nominated in 1880 instead of Gen. Hancock, though he spent $100,000 to help the latter in that campaign.

Mr. Scott was an extensive farmer, owning one of the largest and best equipped stock farms in Pennsylvania. His horses were his especial pride, the list being headed by famous imported stock.—Boston Herald.

CRIMINAL PLUMBING.

Some of the Changes It May Bring to an Otherwise Good House.

It is only now and then that some accidental revelation exposes work of the criminally careless or incompetent plumber. Sometimes it is fatal diseases in families which lead to critical examination of his work and in rare cases the official inspectors of buildings detect it; but it is a fact known generally to physicians and to all who have given the subject a careful study, that one-half or more of the fevers and other malarial maladies which are so common in Philadelphia are the logical results of the criminal plumber.

In point of fact the sanitary plumbing proclaimed and professed to be practiced by the organized master plumbers is seldom enforced. The keen competition in trade compels active underbidding for work, and that causes plumbing contracts to be taken at such low prices that the contractors must choose between doing bad work where it is concealed, or losing money on the contract. Few are willing to do good work at less than its actual cost, and plumbers are eminently human in that regard. Most of their work is hidden from ordinary notice, and they largely make their profits by dishonest practices.

The one part of a residence that should not be offered to competition by contract is the plumbing. Only the most experienced, skilful, and honest men should ever be employed to do the plumbing in a home, and then it is safest to watch it with care. The ignorant or dishonest plumbers will sow the seeds of death in every home if he is allowed to do the plumbing, no matter how well he is watched or paid, and the only safe rule is to employ thoroughly competent and honest men, to pay them fair prices for their work, and then require them to guarantee it for five years, subject to semi-annual tests. This rule would be likely to assure first-class plumbing, and it would drive the incompetent and the criminal plumbers out of business.

There is no excuse for ignorance of poisonous gases in a home. The integrity of the pipes can be as easily and as certainly tested as the leaks in a roof when it rains. By closing the pipes and applying sulphur vapor under pressure, it will not only find every imperfection in the plumbing, but it will declare the exact point of the defect alike by its visible color and by its odor. If it enters the house anywhere, it at once exposes the negligent, incompetent, or criminal plumber. This test, or some one equally effective if there is such, should be applied to each home at least every spring and fall; and it should be a part of the plumber's contract to repair for a term of years all defects thus exposed at his own cost.

The plumber who deliberately puts imperfect work in the hidden parts of a house, and thus exposes a family to disease and death, is as much a criminal as any burglar or murderer. He knows that the diffusion of poisonous gasses destroys health and imperils life, and when he deliberately leaves hidden vents in plumbing for sewer gas to carry its deadly fumes into homes, he is a criminal and he should be treated and punished as a criminal. A recent report of the official inspector of house drainage, where he reports the plumbing in a house as "done in the most incompetent and dangerous manner," offers an opportunity for the master plumbers to begin by dismissing the criminal plumber and demanding his prosecution for his crime. The criminal plumber can be driven out of business if the people act with common fidelity to themselves, and it is high time that the good work should be begun in earnest.

BUFFALOES IN COLORADO.

Only Fifty Left, and Five of Them Wantonly Slaughtered.

There are about 50 buffaloes still ranging wild in Colorado, says the Denver Republican. And yet one man, for whom frontier justice is waiting, recently killed five.

It has been so generally and frequently stated and published that the American buffalo and bison have become completely and thoroughly extinct that the general public has come to accept it as a fact, and believe that the only specimens are those which have been domesticated, and are carefully housed and cared for in the several zoological gardens and parks.

That there are few of them remaining on the plains is certainly true, but there are enough, with proper protection, to soon produce large herds. In this state where ones there were thousands of these animals, their numbers have been rapidly reduced by hunters, who have slain them simply for the momentary pleasure they have experienced in killing large game, until they now number less than 50 and are in four small herds. These are confined to the rougher and more sparsely populated districts, their habitation being a more effective protection to them than all the state game laws ever enacted by the general assembly.

So small had grown the number of these distinctively American animals that in 1889 the state legislature enacted a law providing a severe penalty for the killing of a single specimen before the year 1900, thus allowing a full ten years for them to propagate, but in spite of this enactment word was received but a short time ago that some one in the Kenosha range had shot five buffaloes. State Game Warden Land started at once to make a special and personal investigation of the case. While out he has also made an extensive visit through the state, and he has just returned with an interesting account. He is somewhat discouraged with many things connected with the enforcement of more properly, the non-enforcement of all the game laws, and predicts that unless something very decisive is done, and that very soon, the buffalo will not be the only family wiped from the face of the earth. He reports a most terrible slaughter of all game during the last few months. He was asked last night in reference to the killing of buffaloes:

"There are now very few of them," he stated, "and these, in our feeble and crippled condition, we are endeavoring to protect. That five of them were killed recently is a fact, but I found that we could not convict the guilty if we brought him to trial. He admitted having killed five of them and boasted of the fact to his friends, but we could find no one, after a careful investigation, who would testify against him, and if he were arraigned he would, of course, say not guilty.

"I judge that we have now in the state something less than fifty buffalos, and these are in four bunches. One of these has recently been seen in Middle park, and numbers but five. Another, and possibly the largest, is in Keno-ha range, and numbers possibly twenty. The third, of ten or fifteen head, is at Hahn's Peak, in Routt county. The fourth, and the smallest except that at Middle park, is at Dolores."

HE COOKED FOR THE CZAR.

But Now He Fixes "Ham and —" for Sons of Toil.

"The Mechanics' Boarding House" at No. 320 East Eleventh street is a small and unpretentious restaurant. The pork pie of commerce is retailed therein at the absurdly moderate price of a dime, and a very superior brand of bean may be had for just that amount.

Pastries and viands are the predominating features of the district round about this establishment, so its patronage is confined to the callous-palmed son of manual labor. And yet the cook is a highly distinguished personage.

Although the callous-palmed son of manual labor does not know it has "ham and" is prepared by a culinary artist who formerly cooked for the Imperial Romanoff, the Czar of Russia. His name is William Antoni Massingberd, and he reached this land of the free and home of the brave several days ago. He intends to remain here permanently and stalk the elusive American dollar.

According to his story, told with a strong Moscow brogue, he is a native of Merrie England. A few years after his birth in that country his mother went to Russia and took William along with her. He remained there until a month or so ago.

The tent of the Massingberds was pitched both in St. Petersburg and Moscow, and William, after working at odd trades, secured a place in the imperial kitchen. The post was small, but to boil an egg was one of trust—on the part of the czar.

While his bombproof surroundings render the autocrat of all the Russias adequate protection against the dynamite and nitro-glycerine of his friends, the Nihilists, his edibles still offer an avenue for insidious attack. The kitchen is therefore rigorously watched.

Secret agents concealed in the pantries and spices in the guise of scullions stand ready to balk any attempt to drop a handful of paris green into the soup and suppress all honest endeavors in the line of poisoning the pie.

Mr. Massingberd gave satisfaction for a lengthy period and hoarded up his hard-earned gains. One day the kitchen was thrown into a terrible state of uproar. Some kings and dukes on their way through town had dropped in to lunch with the czar, and somebody down stairs made a mistake in preparing the meal. Exactly what that mistake was Massingbed does not know, but he suffered for it.

The head cook accused him of the blunder and he was discharged without the formalities of a month's notice. In addition to this, his bank account was confiscated and he was ordered to leave the country. He returned to England and secured an emigrant passage to New York. General O'Beirne heard his story and aided him to secure his present position.

Mr. Massingberd is now in a cheerful frame of mind and hopes in time to forget the little unpleasantness between the czar and himself. His lengthy stay in Russia made him a little rusty on his native tongue and some of the orders which he receives confuses him. It takes him a moment or so to grasp the drift of such speeches as "Draw on an' a staker-whites."

The Place for Bees.

Bee keeping should have more attention from farmers, says an exchange. In locating the apiary select some cool, shady, quiet spot. The hives should never be placed against the side of a building or close to a fence but there should always be room to stand upon either side of them while working. The south side of a building is also an objectionable place, because it is liable—from the intense reflected heat of the sun—to give them the swarming fever. Also avoid placing the bees where cattle or horses constantly pass, as the overturning of the hives by the animals might produce serious results. The orchard is a good place for the bees, or an apiary and vineyard may be combined by placing the hives at a good distance apart and planting a grape vine beside each. Do not fear that the bees will spoil the fruit, for it is a well-settled fact that they will not puncture a grape in order to get at its juices, but will only feed upon it after the birds have first taken a bite. Bees are not at all destructive, and they are especially valuable because they gather up and store away that which would be wholly lost if it were not that they can utilize it.—Farmers' Review.

It is education that makes all the difference between the men who dig in the ditch and the man who bosses the job. It is the superior qualities of Ayer's Sarsaparilla that gives it its acknowledged preminence over all other blood purifiers.

THE INVISIBLE ARMY.

From the earliest period, the idea has prevailed of a mysterious, unseen enemy to the human race warring perpetually against health and life. In the days when superstition reigned supreme, this enemy was held to be evil spirits with which the atmosphere was supposed at all times to swarm.

Relief was sought, therefore, through charms, incantations and propitiatory offerings. Under the influence of civilization this theory has disappeared, and with the light of modern science this invisible army and enemy has been exposed to view—a mighty host indeed, which no man can number. This army is composed of Micro-organisms, or microbes. They are among the most minute bodies made visible by the microscope, but their increase is so rapid that unless checked by want of nutriment, they would in a few years take possession of the whole earth, to the exclusion of all other life.

A large proportion of this army is harmless, the poisonous part of it being distinguished as Pathogenic Microbes.

Some conception of the ravages of this mighty army of pathogenic microbes may be had from the general statement, that they are "the cause of four fifths of all the diseases of the human family—that they destroy more lives than war, famine, fire, murder and shipwreck combined—and that they actually abbreviate the average term of human life by three-fourths." This army is divided into many sections, each formed of separate and distinct species, their manner of attack being various. They obtain access to the blood through the skin, through the air we breathe, the water we drink, and through inoculation.

But there is still another method of attack, namely: the dissemination through the circulation of the blood, of deadly poisons. These products of the pathogenic microbes, called ptomaines, tend not only to destroy the life of the person infected, but result finally in the destruction of the microbes which produce them. This accounts for the self-limitation of infectious diseases when not fatal, such as measles, small pox, etc.

There are diseases, however, such as Scrofula, Contagious Blood Poison, and their results and sequences, the limitation of which has hardly yet been fixed. The old treatment of mercury and potash would at best only hold the symptoms of these diseases in check, hoping that the pathogenic microbes might be destroyed by their own virus. This may happen in a term of years, but in the meantime the treatment kills both the microbe and the patient.

S. S. S. has for sixty years been forcing out these pathogenic microbes from the blood, through the pores of the skin, thus curing the disease, and at the same time building up the general health of the patient. When SWIFT'S SPECIFIC enters the blood, the pathogenic microbes take their departure through the pores of the skin, the poison is eliminated, and the patient is well. That the germs of these diseases are expelled from the body through the pores of the skin, there can be no sort or doubt, as it has been demonstrated and settled beyond controversy by distinguished micrologists, and as S. S. S. acts directly through the skin, there can be no doubt of the way in which it has cured thousands, and is destined to cure millions yet unborn.

We will mail our Treatise on the Blood to all applicants, FREE.

Small Down Payment---$5 Per Month!

FAIR GROUNDS ADDITION

At No Time in the History of Toledo

Have there been such rare opportunities for the prudent investor to place his money in land as at present. Toledo property is away down at rock bottom figures. Don't fail to take advantage of these prices as they are sure to go up.

Fortunes Have Been Made

By judiciously investing a few dollars in real estate, and the secret of success often buying in a growing locality at a low figure, and holding the property.

Why Don't You Buy a Home?

You may try to get around it by saying that you cannot afford it. This is nonsense as every one of us spends more money needlessly every month than the small payment required to secure a lot.

Houses Built on Monthly Payments

With a small down payment. If you are worth $5 a month you are good for a lot in Fair Ground Addition. With the New Depot, Electric Street Ry, Water and City Gas this part of the city is bound to go ahead and prices will be from 50 to 100 per cent. higher a year later.

Dr. Clark, the Botanic Specialist,

Eleven years at his Toledo Office Parlors.

I advertise no longer, advertising quacks, who infest our city for a few months and with their accumulated spoils depart.

Dr. Clark cures syphilis, gonorrhea, loss of manhood and powerful spermatorrhea, night emissions, cancers, sores, ulcers, kidney and blood diseases.

Special diseases of both men and women positively cured. Dr. Clark is the only botanic specialist in this state. If you mean business and wish to be cured call and see us and have a friendly talk, and see what can be done for you. If not you probably will fall into the hands of an advertising charlatan or a home physician that is incompetent. Dr. Clark has no spare time to lose, but every case has a thorough examination so you can accept or reject. We are the friends of all sufferers. Dr. C. B. CLARK, Toledo, O., next to Hotel Hamilton.

Manufactured only by The Evans Chemical Co. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A.

The leading remedy for Gonorrhœa & Gleet. The only safe remedy for Leucorrhœa or Whites. I prescribe it and feel safe in recommending it to all sufferers.

2 HOUSES, 16 LOTS, and $550 IN GOLD! GIVEN AWAY!

ON CONDITIONS NAMED BELOW, AT THE GRAND SPECIAL SALE AT ARLINGTON PLACE!

COMMENCING PROMPTLY AT 10:30 A. M. and 2:30 P. M. EACH DAY.

Monday, Oct. 5th, '91,
Wednesday, Oct. 7, '91,
Friday, Oct. 9, '91.

3 Great Days For Dollar Savers, and Money Makers.

READ CAREFULLY what we have to say. It may start you on the road to prosperity, as we have helped on hundreds of others by former sales. Read all we say, we have so many good things for you that it cannot be said in a word.

That all Ladies and Gentlemen, Merchants and Clerks, Tradesmen and Working people, may be interested in our sale, we give every one (except children) attending on the first day, an equal opportunity to receive one of the 2 lots that are to be given away absolutely FREE TO ALL.

3 Judges shall first be selected by the people present, who will have entire charge of the drawing of lots. Warranty deed, also Opinion of Title, by the well known Abstract firm of Bissell & Gorrill, will be furnished each one who receives a free lot, the same as regular purchasers.

OUR PLAN FOR GIVING AWAY LOTS:

FREE FOR ALL—Prize No. 1.

LOT Number 50, Block 6, will go to the ladies (the men will not be in it). All ladies present at our first sale, MONDAY, October 5th, will have an equal opportunity to get this Lot.

The Judges will put the names of all ladies into a hat, and draw ten names, the tenth drawn to receive the Lot.

FREE FOR ALL—Prize No. 2.

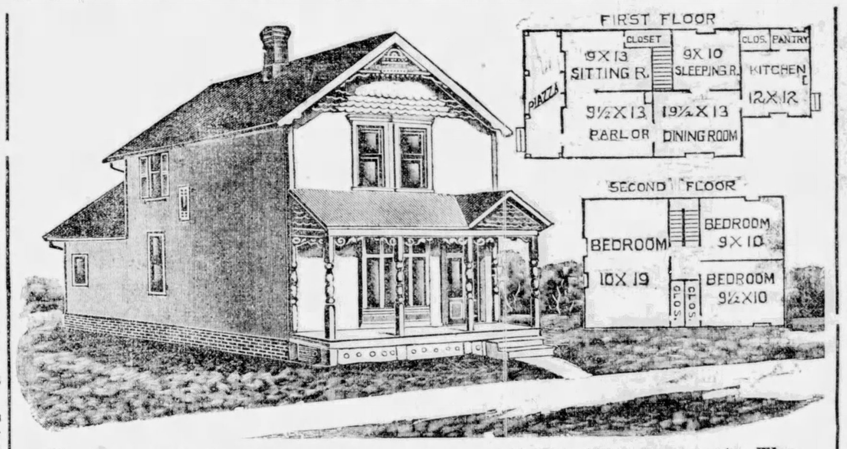
Lot Number 18, Block 8, will go to the gentlemen present at our first sale, on the same plan as above. All present having an equal chance.

The above prizes to be given during the Sale, MONDAY, OCT. 5.

Each 20 purchasers to receive a prize lot We have reserved from sale, to give away, the following Lots:

Numbers 16, 25, 18, 50, 20, 48 22, and 26, in Block 7.

Immediately after the first 20 Lots have been sold, the names of the purchasers of each Lot will be placed in a hat by the Judges, and ten names will be drawn, the tenth to receive, Free a deed for Lot 16, Block 7



The Houses to be given away are represented by the above cut. The buildings show for themselves as to material and workmanship.

In case any one person buys more than one lot out of the 20 sold, his name shall be placed in the hat once for each Lot purchased.

The purchasers of the second 20 Lots shall receive Lot 25, Block 7, on same plan as first twenty, and in this way each 20 purchasers shall receive the Lots reserved. Lots to be given in the order named.

Grand $1.100 House & Lot,
PRIZE No. 1,

When the first 100 Lots have been sold, the names of the purchasers will be placed in a hat by the Judges and Twenty (20) names will be drawn, the 20th drawn to receive the first house and Lot Number 52, Block 6.

Grand $1.100 House & Lot.

When the second 100 Lots are sold the second prize house and Lot Number 15, Block 8, will be given same plan as first prize house.

$50 buys one of these Beautiful Lots. We offer a few lots at this extremely low figure, advancing price as they grow closer to Arlington Avenue. Price of each lot may be seen on Plat at our office, 243 ST. CLAIR STREET, or at office on the grounds.

Since work commenced on the property, many purchasers have asked us to reserve certain lots for them. This we have refused to do, except Lot 1, Block 7, which we have sold to party who is now erecting a good store building. We think it to the interest of all who expect to make their home at Arlington, to have a grocery and meat market opened on the property at once, and for this reason have made this one sale.

All must come in on the same basis. You cannot buy after sale is over, at prices named on day of sale. In case any lots are left at close of sale, on FRIDAY, OCTOBER 9TH, the price will be advanced at least 50 per cent.

TERMS.—$10 cash when Lot is purchased; $15 by 9 P. M. on day following, and $5 per month thereafter until paid. Five (5) per cent. discount will be allowed to purchasers who pay all cash, during week of sale. No interest will be charged and we will pay all Taxes during the life of any contract, providing all terms of contract are fully lived up to by the purchaser.

$650.00 in Gold GIVEN TO PURCHASERS who complete houses on or before Jauuary 1st, '92.

$100 in gold will be given to the first person completing a house in Arlington worth $700.00 or more.
$90 in gold to second—same conditions.
$80 in gold to third.
$70 in gold to fourth.
$60 in gold to fifth.
$50 in gold to sixth.
$40 in gold to seventh.
$30 in gold to eighth.
$20 in gold to ninth.
$10 in gold to tenth.

ARLINGTON PLACE is located on Arlington Avenue, the main street to the beautiful Toledo Asylum. The Toledo Electric Street Railway passes the property, furnishing a delightful ride to and from the city, and with full advantage of three cent fare. Only eighteen minutes to the post office, one fare carrying to any part of the city.

30 to 50 Men and 10 to 20 Teams have been busy for several weeks improving this property.

SIDE WALK has been nicely laid in front of all lots.
WIDE STREETS have been laid out, all well graded to a permanent grade, giving a nice slope back to Swan Creek, affording excellent drainage to the entire property.
ALL LOTS have been leveled to correspond with grade of streets, and are all high and dry. Soil sandy, making beautiful building lots.
BROAD ALLEYS also well graded in rear of all lots.
ARLINGTON AVENUE has a beautiful pavement thirty-two feet wide.
CITY WATER PIPES and NATURAL GAS MAINS are already laid past this property.

THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE

Find work within easy walking distance of Arlington. The following industries are all accessible: Michigan Central and Wabash Transfer House, Yards and Round-House, Wabash Shops, Clover Leaf Yards, Elevator and Engine houses, Lake Shore Yards, Round-House and Shops, Boice, Arnold, Hall and Malone Brick Yards, Merrell Mfg Co. The Mills, Factories and Lumber Yards of Mitchell & Rowland, Maclaren & Sprague, Clarke & Terhune, Wm, Peter, Lamson & Skinner Bending Works, Milmine Foundry, Toledo Nut & Bolt Works, Toledo Pump Co., Standard Oil Co., Schenk's Coal Chutes, Union Mfg Co., Toledo Wheelbarrow Works, Grasser & Brand Brewing Co. and Toledo Brewing & Malting Co.

The Best Opportunity ever offered in Toledo to buy Real Estate at a Great Bargain, and on extremely easy terms, which we offer during the coming week. We have spent thousands of dollars in making this desirable residence property, and the price at which we shall sell these Lots, if figured by the acre is far less than the acre price of adjoining property, where no improvements have been made.

We obtained this property at a very low figure and propose in selling to give our purchasers the benefit of it by naming figures correspondingly low. We know of no direction at an equal distance from the center of Toledo where you can buy Lots at $50, or at nearly so low a price.

A rapid advance must certainly take place immediately, when we close our sale. The large number becoming interested, and the many houses that will be erected during the coming six months must surely greatly advance values. All should bring double by the comnig spring. Don't miss this opportunity, the like of which will never again occur in Toledo.

SPECIAL NOTICE! In awarding the prizes of houses and lots, in case that less than 100 lots are sold the names of such Toledo churches and charitable institutions as may be selected by the people present will be placed in the hat to make the requisite number of names. Such churches or charitable institutions as are selected shall have the same opportunity to obtain the house and lot 52, block 6, as the purchasers of lots. The names of any single institution to appear but once. In case that less than 200, but more than 100 lots are sold, the names of Toledo churches and charitable institutions shall be selected as above, placed in the hat with the names of purchasers, and have the same opportunity to obtain house and lot 15 block 8, as the purchasers. In awarding the lot prizes, in case that other than an even 20 lots are sold, the same plan as above will be adopted to fill out the requisite number of names.

ALL Church societies and charitable institutions in Toledo should be well represented at our sale in order to have their interests well cared for in case all lots are not sold.

FREE STREET CAR TICKETS FOR ROUND TRIP may be obtained at our office, or will be furnished on all special cars running to the property on days of sale. All Cars Free between the hours of 9 and 10:30 a. m. and 1 and 2:30 p. m. Tickets must be punched on the grounds and will then be good for return trip on all cars.

For further information, Plats or Car Tickets, call at our office in Boody House Block, or at office on the Grounds.
